10-Lane D.C. Road Opened By the State

Mayor Francis Pacelli snipped a 25-cent ribbon and two bands of concrete worth $24.6 million were opened to automobile travel in Daly City Thursday.

The occasion was the formal opening ceremony for a one-mile stretch of the ten-lane Interstate Route 280 through Daly City.

Survey Says Riders Favor Fare Hike

Non-bus users outnumber riders in Daly City, according to preliminary results of the city's recent transit study.

Joseph Arch, director of finance, told the city council in a study session Monday night that about one-third of the approximately 8,000 transit cards returned by residents had been tabulated.

The answers, he said, showed that comparatively few people use Northgate Transit, Greyhound or San Francisco Municipal Railway buses on a regular basis.

However, the answers indicate that more than twice the present number of riders would use buses if service were expanded.

A 15-cent fare appealed to 1,241 of those whose cards have been counted; 1,154 said they would pay 20 cents, and 707 said 25 cents would not be too high.

Arch told the council he expected to have the complete results of the survey from the private firm tabulating the cards by today. However, he added, cards are still arriving at the rate of several dozen a day, so an official tally may be some time off.

Councilmen plan to use the survey results as a guide in planning future bus transportation facilities for Daly City.

Award Night Anticipating Full House

A capacity crowd that is expected to test fully the banquet facilities of Westlake Joe's Restaurant in Daly City is scheduled to be on hand for tomorrow's Student Awards Dinner at 7 p.m.

Presented and sponsored by the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce, the dinner will honor eight students from Westmoor and Jefferson High Schools.

The students have been selected on the basis of their academic and extra-curricular performance. (Please See Page 2, Column 2)

Judges' Recommendation: No S.S.F. Court This Year

A committee of Superior Court judges recommended yesterday that a full-time court not be established in South San Francisco this year.

The committee agreed, however, that a judge would be assigned there, perhaps next year, if the legislature approves the appointment of a new judge and the county provides the courtroom.

It appeared likely today that the third courtroom in the South San Francisco courthouse, now utilized by a visiting Superior Court judge on Fridays only, will be assigned to the Municipal Court by that time.

The County Board of Supervisors today endorsed legislation providing for the appointment of a third Municipal Court judge in the Northern Judicial District. County Manager E. R. Stallings said the bill has already passed the Senate and (Please See Page 2, Column 3)

2 S.S.F. Children Die in House Fire

Two small children died yesterday morning in a fire in a house in Daly City.

Their mother and their grandfather tried to rescue them, but they were forced to give up the effort.

Fire Chief John Marchi said the fire was started by an electric hot-plate which had been stored in the closet.

Apparently the children were playing, and had plugged the hot-plate into an electrical receptacle, he said, because their parents assured him the little stove had been disconnected.

Their mother, Carol Marquez, works nights as an admitting nurse at Peninsula Hospital.

She was asleep in the other bedroom, she said, when the smell of smoke awoke her at 6:55 a.m.

Marquez rushed toward the bedroom, but was forced to give up the effort.

Efforts to revive the little brothers were of no avail.

The children were pronounced dead upon arrival at Mary's Help Hospital, Daly City. Even then, doctors continued revival efforts.

Medics agreed that the children died of asphyxiation, and said there were no burns on the small bodies.

Chief Marchi said the fire had room, and felt around in the heavy smoke for the children's bodies, then carried them into the open air as firemen arrived.

Chief Marchi said the first fire truck to arrive, from the nearby Buri Buri station, concentrated on giving artificial resuscitation to the children.

Brawling Cyclists Given Haircuts in County Jail

Seven of the eight motorcyclists arrested last Thursday night in a brawl with police in Daly City have undergone quite a transformation at county jail in Redwood City.

Shaves, haircuts, showers and fresh clothing were given to all seven last weekend with what Deputy Edward Caragher said was a "co-operative" attitude by them.

There was slight objection to the haircuts until it was explained that long hair in close quarters with other inmates, Caragher said. Military style 1 1/2-inch hair was prescribed and accepted, but one had it all cut off.

All beards came off, although those with mustaches were allowed to keep them, he said.

Four have been booked on suspicion of felony assault on a police officer and bail has been set at $11,000 each. The four are: Kenneth C. Krake, 22, 546 Sixth Avenue, Redwood City; Charles E. Lyssaught, 24, of Sacramento; Raymond H. Hutchins III, 22, of Oakland, and Lewis J. Edwards, 22, of Hayward.

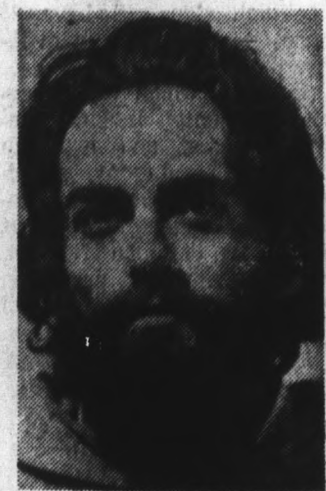

The other three have been charged with inciting a riot, failure to disperse, disturbing the peace and being drunk in public. Bail was set at $2,750 each.

These are: Gary Bruce Maker, 24, of San Jose; Richard W. Othen, 23, of Campbell, and Lawrence W. Cook, 23, of Santa Clara.

The eighth cyclist was Bobby V. England, 23, of Oakland, who was released on $2,550 bail in Northern District Municipal Court and will appear there for arraignment Monday at 2 p.m.

At the height of the full-scale riot on Geneva Avenue, more than 50 police fought the enraged cyclists with clubs and nightsticks. The police did not fire any gunshots.

No one was killed but several combatants on both sides required medical attention after the brawl. Six Daly City police officers received minor injuries.

One cyclist, Lyssaught, was taken to Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City for treatment of a severe head wound. He was treated and released into the custody of police.

Crosswalk Is Approved By Coast Council

Pacific City Councilmen approved a resolution at last week's meeting to the Division of Highways requesting a new pedestrian crossing over the Coast Highway in the Sharp Park District.

The wording of the resolution was changed to delete senior citizen housing on the west side of the highway as a basis for the overpass. The proposal for this housing was defeated in last Tuesday's election.

The majority of Pacific's elderly citizens live in the Sharp Park District, and the present two overpasses are located over a half mile from the shopping center at Eureka Square. The contemplated overpass would be at San Jose Avenue directly across from the shopping center.

City Engineer Kenneth Thompson said that the city would pay 50 per cent of the estimated $40,000 cost of the (Please See Page 2, Column 3)

Boy Scouts 'Take Over' S.S.F. Council

It was crowded at last night's meeting of the South San Francisco City Council.

Not only did the audience nearly fill the council chambers, there were twice as many people behind the councilmen's desk as usual.

The extra faces on the platform belonged to boy scouts, who were taking part in Boy Scout Day in Government, so proclaimed by Mayor Frank Bertucci.

The scouts had spent all day with their counterparts on the council and in various city jobs, including a luncheon and a tour of the city hall.

At the council meeting, they mainly observed, although the councilmen occasionally passed (Please See Page 2, Column 4)

N. County Cities Swear In Officials

City Councils met throughout San Mateo County last night, in special sessions required by state law.

On each agenda was official certification of the results of last week's municipal election.

In addition, there were the ceremonies of swearing in new or re-elected councilmen.

In some cases, the new mayor and representatives to various committees were also chosen. Several cities, however, were expected to postpone the selections to the next regularly scheduled business meeting.

Among those expected to delay the selection of mayor is South San Francisco, where newly re-elected Councilman Patrick Ahern appears to be the best bet to take over from (Please See Page 2, Column 4)

Car Jam Backs Up Into S.F.

Unfamiliarity Is Blamed

Opening of Daly City's portion of the Junipero Serra Freeway promptly created a monumental traffic jam Thursday for home-bound commuter traffic — traveling both north and south on feeder roads.

Red-faced state highway officials, who earlier had extolled the virtues of the freeway at a ribbon-cutting ceremony, blamed the tieup on drivers' unfamiliarity with the new traffic flow.

Shortly before 6 p.m., traffic was backed up almost six miles on the Southern Freeway leading from the Bayshore Freeway to Daly City.

Another jam piled up for northbound Junipero Serra Boulevard traffic in Daly City, heading for San Francisco.

Three two-mile-long lanes of traffic were forced to combine into one lane north of Knowles Avenue, which then fed into Alemany Boulevard.

Another jam backed up Friday morning at Lake Merced and Alemany Boulevards.

A temporary detour directs Nineteenth Avenue-bound traffic coming from Pacifica and the Westlake area of Daly City (Please See Page 2, Column 6)

A Reminder On Detour

Motorists from the Westlake area of Daly City and from Pacifica, bound for 19th Avenue in San Francisco, should detour over Lake Merced Boulevard and Brotherhood Way, city and highway officials have reminded drivers.

Because of freeway construction, northbound Junipero Serra and Alemany Boulevards no longer tie into 19th Avenue. The detour will be in effect about two months.

JESD Board Hits 'Debating Society'

Many groups will use a board meeting as a debating society to expound their own views. Supt. Frank Greenwood gave this as one reason, at last night's Jefferson Elementary School Board meeting, why many groups have tightened their requirements on visitors speaking when it interfered with the proper conduct of a business meeting.

Emil Tenud of Daly City, had asked trustees for a method that would enable visitors to speak on an item when it is under discussion, rather than at the conclusion of the meeting.

Board Chairman Thomas Noonan suggested the use of visitor cards which would identify the speaker and subject. They are presently in use at the Jefferson Union High School District Board meetings.

Both Trustees George Perry and Joseph Lewkowicz agreed that the present procedure was satisfactory. "I don't know when a single interference has occurred with the public's request to comment on a certain subject," Perry noted.

Trustee Wayne Douglas remarked that he would be opposed to a policy that would allow anyone to step up from the audience and interfere with the regular proceedings.

D.C. Youths' Auto Careens Into Lake

Seven Daly City teen-agers were injured Sunday afternoon when the station wagon they were driving careened into San Francisco's Lake Merced.

Two of the youths suffered serious injuries. They were James Patt, 17, of 88 West Park Drive, and Kevin Earnshaw, 14, of 65 Woodland Avenue.

Others injured were Gary Burns, 16, of 69 West Park Drive; Russell Hampton, 14, of 60 West Park Drive; Joseph Morch, 15, of 288 Second Avenue; Daniel Patt, 16, of 88 West Park Drive, and Ronald Arruabarrena, 14, of 153 Skyline Drive.

The boys were taken to Mission Emergency and Alemany Emergency hospitals and then released to private care.

Two passing policemen saved two of the boys from possible drowning by pulling them from the water. The other five youngsters were thrown from the auto before it reached the lake.

Police said the car entered the shoreline curve south of Skyline Boulevard near the Pacific Rod and Gun Club, went into a skid and headed off the pavement, end-over-end, into the water. The vehicle landed upright.

(Continued From Page 1) overpass from gas tax money. He said that the money had been budgeted for improving Palmetto Avenue but, "we are a long way from getting that assessment district formed."

Councilwoman Grace McCarthy suggested that perhaps the shopping center should "help us." Mayor James Fox called the overpass a necessary project that had been aimed many times.

A claim from James Edward Johnson for $100,850 against the city for an alleged case of false arrest and mistaken identity on a check forging charge was recommended denied and referred to the insurance carrier.

A zoning policy memo on C-1-A (apartments over stores) was finally adopted after continued hearings. The memo was reworded to state that the applicant must bear the expense of re-zoning unless the property had the re-wording 4-0 to discourage "speculative re-zoning."

Re-zoning was approved for a new motel in Rockaway Beach as a conforming use. Owner, Nick Gust, won election to the City Council on Tuesday.

A tentative map for Rosita Terrace was introduced for re-zoning. A question arose as to some alterations to be made on a dedicated drainage easement. Planning Commissioner James Supinger said that affected property owners may protest. "Legally, we can do what we please for drainage purposes, as the easement is our property," Attorney John Sherman, contended. City Engineer Kenneth Thompson was asked to volunteer to contact the property owners so that they could be heard from. A road right-of-way extension was also approved for this area.

Judges Turn Down Court

Stallings told the board that he will include an appropriation of $175,000 in his capital projects budget proposal this year for expansion of the South San Francisco courthouse to provide a fourth courtroom.

In the meantime, it was agreed, a study will be made of the possibility of making use of the vacant courtroom in San Mateo, perhaps by having a Municipal Court judge from South San Francisco sit in San Mateo on days the Superior Court will be having sessions in South San Francisco.

According to the police report the horde of cyclists came to Charlie's Geneva Club at 2860 Geneva Avenue after the funeral and began drinking.

By about 5 p.m. some of the cyclists were drinking outside the tavern and dragging their girl friends out into the street into the traffic lanes.

They proceeded to block the sidewalk in front of the tavern and harass passersby.

Boy Scouts 'Take Over' S.S.F. Council

Among the actions the scouts saw were these:

An application by David and Alvin Arata to display three new cars on a lot at 12 Linden Avenue was finally turned down by the council, after one previous hearing, a referral to the planning commission for further study, and another postponement.

Councilmen voted four to one to uphold the commission's recommendation for denial, based on two planning commission hearings at which residents of neighboring Village Way vehemently protested the car lot as a safety and traffic hazard.

A letter from H. D. Merrill of the Westborough Homeowners' Improvement Association prompted Mayor Bertucci to call for a resolution asking City Manager Eugene Aiello to contact the county Board of Supervisors and "get some action on this matter."

Merrill had asked council help in speeding the widening of Westborough Boulevard, which he described as "almost impassable at times."

In another action, a motion to contact the county Board of Supervisors to request the relocation of guard rails at the intersection of Serra Boulevard and the Drive.

Councilmen voted to award contracts for new public library shelving and furniture to the Library Bureau of Remington Office Systems, low bidder at $70,424.14, for two new police automobiles to Volante Motors, low bidder at $13,130, and for construction in the Stonegate Ridge unit number one to Lowrie Paving Company, low bidder at $295,846.44.

The council approved five variance permits recommended by the planning commission, four for residential additions and the fifth for a commercial building.

A sign-use permit for the Dog House Restaurant was approved, with the planning commission stipulation that three lines of advertising be deleted from plans. As approved, the 24-foot-high sign will have 94 square feet of surface, with interior illumination.

Ordinances which would regulate community antenna television systems and establish subdivision regulations, scheduled for introduction, were continued to a future meeting at the request of John Noonan, city attorney, who is preparing them. Noonan told the council he wanted more time to review.

Officials Are Sworn In

Daly City, on the other hand, went ahead with the election of the mayor last night. In line for the job was Councilman Albert Polonsky.

In Pacifica, Harland Minshew appeared likely to be chosen mayor by his fellow councilmen.

Mrs. Rena Vallerga, who also won re-election last week, was expected to replace fellow Councilman Raymond D. Ottoboni as mayor of Colma. Mrs. Vallerga previously held the position from 1960 to 1962.

Whatever their criteria for electing a mayor — seniority, status as vice mayor, or a rotation formula — most councils were waiting until the actual election before officially announcing whom they would choose.

Marijuana Alert Given, Says Tonini

Dr. Harold C. Tonini, principal of Terra Nova High School, disclosed that school administrators were alerted some nine months ago that students of the school may have been smoking marijuana.

He said educators were alerted by police to watch for tell-tale evidence of marijuana use, such as a sweet smell in restrooms, or unusual actions of students.

The investigation proved emphatically, however, that at no time any sales, traffic or use of the narcotic weed took place at the school, and that apparently all of the youths involved smoked marijuana cigarettes after school hours, and at places other than on the school campus.

Most of the purchases took place at shopping centers, at beaches and in cars parked elsewhere, he said.

Police agreed with Tonini that none of the traffic occurred at the school.

According to Tonini, school authorities were first alerted by anonymous telephone calls of students smoking marijuana eight or nine months ago and have worked closely with police since then.

"In something like this, you are bound to hear rumors," the educator declared. "But in this case they continued. Neither the police, nor we, could find any evidence in checking the school, however. Although we have been constantly on the alert, to our knowledge no sales traffic nor smoking took place on our school grounds."

Before the freeway opening, Nineteenth Avenue bound traffic could proceed directly from Junipero Serra Boulevard.

Everett Raymond, resident engineer for the State Highway Division, said that most of the traffic tieups could be attributed to people "getting to learn the new route." And he added: "Quite a few people, in fact, missed the freeway altogether."

He referred to San Francisco-bound traffic traveling on Junipero Serra Boulevard that failed to enter the freeway at a ramp just south of Eastmoor Avenue in Daly City.

Part of the traffic tieup in Daly City Thursday was attributed by motorists to a lack of police supervision.

A Daly City Police Department spokesman, however, said that all available manpower had been sent to Geneva Avenue to curb a riot of Hell's Angels.

The woman, Rose Santa Ma-day that the theft occurred at 1:20 p.m. She said the purse also contained miscellaneous papers.

Old Homes Have Tales to Tell

D.C.'s Early Settlers Had It Rugged

By JOHN HORGAN

Modern man lives in the present. He has little use for relics and memorabilia.

But, for some residents of Daly City, there is one particular set of memories from the past that conjures up a very special emotion. That of survival.

In a 13-acre area immediately surrounding the soon-to-be-built Bay Area Rapid Transit District's Daly City station is a housing "development" that is almost 60 years old.

Much of the development is scheduled for extinction at the hands of the wreckers.

The houses, 175 of which are marked for destruction, have a story to tell that makes modern man's trek to the pre-planned, highly organized and secure suburban tracts seem like child's play.

The dwellings were built in and transported from San Francisco after the earthquake and fire of 1907 to house a small portion of the Bay City's many homeless.

One man, Arthur Bodien of 28 Rice Street, in Daly City remembers those early days.

"We had no place to go after that fire," said Bodien. "So, when the rains started a couple of days after that, we had to find some place to live. The only answer to the problem was to build our own houses in the city and move to the 'country'."

Literally hundreds of unfortunate San Franciscans did just that.

"I came out here with my mother," explained Bodien. "I built the house myself in San Francisco and hired a man to help me roll it to Daly City on a sled. The house was only 14 by 18 feet and by just three rooms."

EMPTY, BOARDED-up houses on Hillcrest Drive in Daly City stand ready for wreckers who will clear the area for an end-of-the-line station for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District. Station will be situated in the north-central part of the city, just south of San Francisco. Some houses in the area had been transported to Daly City after the 1906 earthquake. (Post-Times Photo)

We paid about $30 apiece for the houses."

Bodien, who served on the Daly City City Council for 12 years from 1924 to 1936, added that "the land for the little places cost $400 apiece then. I bought two."

Now, Bodien estimated the same parcels of land would go for about "$1,500 apiece."

The old houses are worthless now according to him. "I condemned a lot of them when I was the city's superintendent of public works (he held that post for 21 years). But I always waited to condemn the houses until the old people who usually lived in them passed away."

Bodien lived in his house on what was then Melrose Street (it has since been changed to Santa Barbara Avenue) until 1912 when he got married and moved out.

"One house in particular sticks out in my memory," continued Bodien. "It was called the Castle and was built by Edwin Fryer, the first mayor of Daly City. He made it all out of sheet metal and never did finish it. He worked on it for 25 years adding bits and pieces but never got it done."

Bodien did not lament the passing of the aged dwellings. He had nothing but fond words for them.

"We sat on the side of the hill (the Crocker Hills) and watched San Francisco burning and we were glad we had a place to stay. Those houses were a helluva lot better than those tents we stayed in at first."

What is to replace the old houses on that 13-acre site is the western-most terminal of the BARTD lines.

Though estimates vary, it is thought that the station will cost BARTD about $4.1 million to build.

The site is bounded by Southern Freeway on the west, Knowles Avenue on the south, a re-located DeLong Street on the east, and the city limits on the north.

Truly, the building of the terminal marks the end of an era.

TWO PATTERNS

Laguna to Study Grade Placements

Two patterns for upper grade placements were recommended for study by the housing committee of the Laguna Salada School District at a meeting of the district's board of trustees last week.

A lengthy study by trustees of an upper grade report, along with presentations by Superintendent Fred Lucas and Dr. Lucille Foster, assistant superintendent, prompted trustee backing of two plans.

One would establish larger concentrations of upper grade students in six schools throughout the district. The second plan would establish a middle school at Cabrillo, housing 21 classes of sixth, seventh, and eighth grade pupils.

Lucas recommended that the program be planned to jell with facilities of individual teachers and proposed adding an extra teacher for each five present teachers.

He added that he felt that both plans gave the teachers maximum flexibility.

"Maybe it is placing too much faith in the teacher," he said, "but I don't think so. This way they can design the kind of program that they could carry out best, and where they can determine grouping."

The need for a 25-cent tax was voiced by trustee Ruth Boudinot and John Munt, assistant business superintendent, in order to operate the program.

Dr. Foster also cited need for some self-contained rooms in each school building.

"There is a question," Lucas stated, "as to whether large concentrations of one age group do teach maturity." A teacher in the audience said that he was against a "structured and greatly departmentalized program."

In other business, approval was given to a pilot "head start" program. Dr. Foster said federal aid would cover 90 per cent of costs. The program would help children get ready for kindergarten.

"There would be no out of pocket cash from the district," she stated.

Sarah Boddinhouse, acting director for the San Mateo Human Resources Commission who helped to establish the "head start" program in Pacifica, described an emphasis on the "total child" and the establishment of better relationships between the child and the home.

"The time to prevent school dropouts is when children are small," she said.

The proposed program would provide for a child development center, consisting of one room. Approximately 15 to 20 children would be enrolled.

Selection of students would come from families on welfare or with a very limited income.

The program is designed to meet the special educational needs of pre-school children who, because of a lack of cultural and socio-economic advantages, will need extra help and guidance in achieving successful school experiences, Laguna officials noted.

Trustees also approved the co-sponsorship of a citizens' committee on boundaries and de facto segregation in conjunction with the Jefferson Union High School district.

Nathan Green was appointed as summer school principal, contingent upon the registration of 500 pupils for the program.

A $414 to $724 salary scale was set for summer school teachers, according to Dr. Foster. "We have always had many more applications for summer school than we could possibly use," she added.

Trustees also approved May 17 as the date for this year's annual joint meeting with the Pacifica City Council.

Lucas said that all requests for public use of school facilities when school is not in session will be referred to the Pacifica Park Beach and Recreation Department.

At the joint meeting, a lowering of the community services tax from five cents to 3 1/2 cents because of increases in assessed values, will also be discussed.

Board Sees Coast Pupils On Television

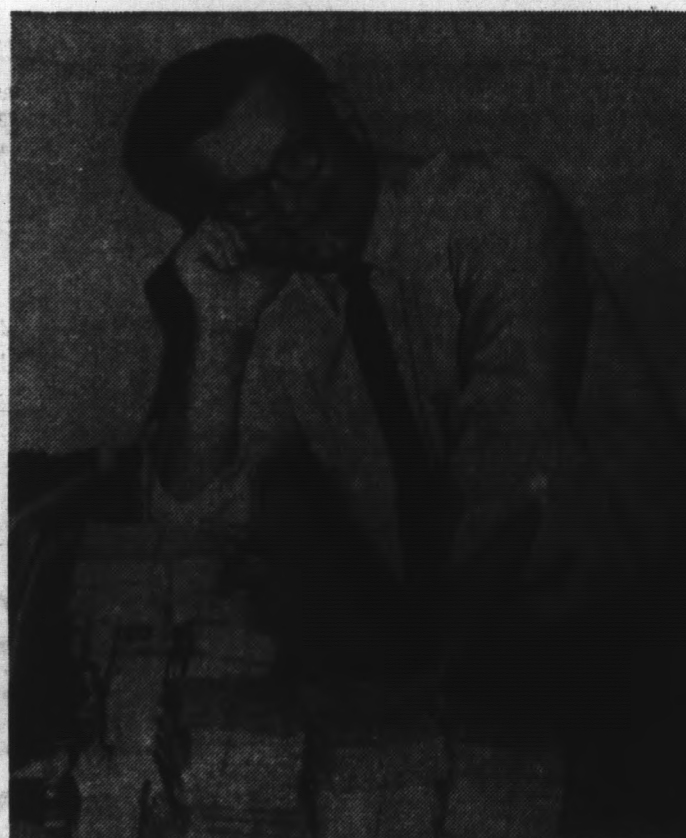

A "curriculum in action" television program from the College of San Mateo, featuring a Pacifica teacher and his students, was viewed by Laguna Salada School District trustees before the trustees' meeting last week.

The open-area school rooms of Portola School were the setting for the viewing of the program.

Resource opportunities teacher Milton Martin from Sharp Park School demonstrated full figure drawings with the help of three of his students from a non-graded program.

Martin, who is also an artist, asked a student to lie down on large, white drawing paper while other students outlined his figure in heavy lines. The drawing was then filled in.

Hard Day's Night

JOSEPH ARCH, Daly City director of finance, contemplates the job of sorting and tabulating thousands and thousands of transit survey cards returned by conscientious residents in the past three weeks. Result of survey will guide the city council in planning future bus service. More than half of the 16,000 cards mailed out had been returned. Tabulation began last week. (Post-Times Photo)

Giant Planes Slated for Future

By GEORGE GOLDING

Plans for new and bigger airliners were revealed last week at San Francisco International Airport while the first airline pilots in history told how they got the business started 40 years ago.

At almost the same hour, a test pilot was flying a government's experimental bomber, the XB-70, at speeds of 2,000 miles per hour, over the Mojave desert in Southern California.

In Western Airlines' Horizon Room at the San Francisco Airport the contrast was obvious.

Holding a model of the open cockpit Douglas M-2 airplane which got Western and several other airlines started hauling freight and people, Fred Kelly looked out of place.

"We would leave Los Angeles at 7 a.m.," said Kelly, first pilot for Western, which claims to have been the first operating airline, in 1926.

"We would fly all day with those 12 exhaust stacks popping just ahead of our ears, and when we'd land, we couldn't hear anything for two days."

"Then we'd fly the next trip back."

Kelly, 68, now lives at Long Beach, having retired from flying at the end of World War II. In another part of the airport, Lockheed Aircraft's minister-like H. S. Hopkins was describing the gigantic L500 airplane to members of the Bay Area Air Cargo Association.

"It's cargo deck, inside, is longer than the first flight made by the Wright brothers," he said. "You could drive six of Greyhound's largest scenicrulers buses into it, and carry more than 200 people on the top deck to ride in the buses when you land."

Toy Passengers

"In the all-passenger version, you could carry 904 economy passengers, or 667 luxury class passengers, with 11 four-passenger compartments, and 23 host-

By LE PACINI

WHAT THE old-timers—the real old, old-timers—say, is true. Baseball has changed.

In 1977, Russell McKelvey, a big, powerful, strong-armed 22-year-old, joined Indianapolis of the National League. He was put in the outfield, pitched relief a few times, and when the season was over, McKelvey had led the majors in home runs with an astonishing total of nine in just 60 games (the entire schedule, that year) to become the first rookie ever to lead a major league in home runs.

But Indianapolis finished in fifth place, barely escaping the cellar in the six-team league, and McKelvey, having hit only .222 and being anything but an outstanding outfielder or baserunner, was replaced.

The next time Russell McKelvey appeared in a major league game was in 1882 with Pittsburgh of the American Association. He played one game, went hitless and never played again.

In 1947, a big 24-year-old rookie outfielder named Ralph Kiner, also a little short in the outfielding and baserunning departments (and he couldn't even pitch), batted only .47 for Pittsburgh, but hit 23 home runs in 144 games to lead the National League in that category. Proportionately, this was at about the same clip McKelvey had hit 'em, and ol' Russell had done it sans lively ball.

Pittsburgh finished last, but was delighted to retain Kiner, considering him quite an asset.

Baseball HAS changed.

EXTRA SPECIAL UTILITARIANS: While still on the historical kick, let's consider this: with few exceptions, such as Billy Goodman in his top years with the Red Sox, ballplayers nowadays attribute everything from batting slumps to broken marriages on position switches.

You remember, of course, how Willie McCovey's coming caused a switch of Orlando Cepeda from his beloved first base to third and eventually (and humanely) to the outfield, and how it all, supposedly, almost ruined the sensitive Orlando.

And there's hardly a player around who would think of being a playing-manager. Pee-Wee Reese mixed it before Alston's arrival, and Alvin Dark, a great athlete, baseball-wise and versatile, quit with possibly a couple of playing years left in him when he took the Giant reins, because he thought that managing would hinder his concentration as a player, and vice-versa.

But consider the case of one Fred "Sureshot" Dunlap. In 1884, while playing for St. Louis in the ill-fated Union League, Fred hit .420 (also leading the league in homers with 13) while playing second base, the outfield, and even pitching a few games. But those were the least of his accomplishments. He also managed the club to a pennant. They played .850 ball. And Dunlap was only 25 years old.

Hardy Richardson perhaps surpassed Dunlap as a busybody. During his 15-year playing career (1879-1892) he played at every position on the field, performed in three major leagues (National, American Association and Players League), led two of the leagues in home runs (National and Players), and compiled a lifetime batting average of .302.

MORE ON BASEBALL: It's interesting to compare Jim Gentile and Dick Stuart.

Both are big (Gentile, 6-4, 210; Stuart, 6-3, 210), both are first basemen, and both are among baseball's most colorful characters. Both were born in San Francisco, they're within a year and a half in age (Gentile will be 32 in June, Stuart was just 34), and broke into the majors within a year of each other (Gentile, 1957; Stuart, 1958). Stuart even up Gentile's year on him, however, by having become a regular in '59, while Gentile had to wait until '60, after a couple of trips back to the minors.

All told, each has played eight major league seasons, and with nearly identical results. Stuart has a lifetime batting average of .266, and, during the years he's played regularly, has averaged 32 homers, 107 RBI's per season. Gentile's lifetime BA is .263, and in his regular years he's averaged 31 HR's, 95 RBI's. Gentile's stolen three bases (total, not average), Stuart, two.

Now, don't ask for a comparison of fielding averages. We wouldn't want to put Stuart, who was really raised in good old San Carlos, at a disadvantage.

Another interesting comparison to make is between Norm Cash of Detroit and Tito Francona of St. Louis. Both left-handed hitters have relatively lackluster lifetime batting averages, Cash .280, Francona .275.

Yet, within one year of each other, they compiled two of the highest one-season batting averages of post-war baseball!

While playing for Cleveland in 1959, Francona hit .363 (Harvey Kueen of Detroit won the batting crown with .353 when Francona just missed qualifying for the proper times at bat), while Cash led the league in hitting for Detroit in 1960 by slugging for .361.

WITH BASEBALL "holdouts" beginning to look more and more like excuses for playing hooky from spring training, some of the old-timers are knowingly nodding their heads and reminding the new breed of the time when baseball was considered not respectable because only, "lazy bums" played the game.

WE WONDER, in light of the Koufax-Drysdale thing, if Horace Stoneham now REALLY appreciates Willie Mays, who would—if it were legal—just as soon let his next door neighbor sign his annual contract so that he (Willie) could get in an extra round of golf.

WHAT FEW FANS understand about the machinations of baseball, when they rant over a club for trading away top farm prospects, is that some clubs often sign youngsters because of their possible eventual trade value.

Consistently winning clubs have usually been willing to trade for a pennant at a time, and let next year take care of itself; clubs, that is, who have confidence in their organization.

Which is why we say, trade—if possible—23-year-old Jesus Alou for 35-year-old Roy McMillan... for instance.

What good are six fine outfielders in combination with no good shortstops?

NPL Baseball Race Jammed Up

The North Peninsula League baseball race continued to tighten last Friday as just one game separated six teams.

Four teams were tied for fourth place as of last Friday with only Half Moon Bay out of contention with a winless 0-4 record.

Terra Nova, 2-1, and South San Francisco, 3-2, are deadlocked one-half game behind first-place El Camino.

The Colts regained the top notch in the NPL by besting Terra Nova, 8-1, behind the superb pitching of workhorse, Paul Jones. Jones walked nobody while fanning four and lowered his earned run average for the league to 0.95 in 22 innings.

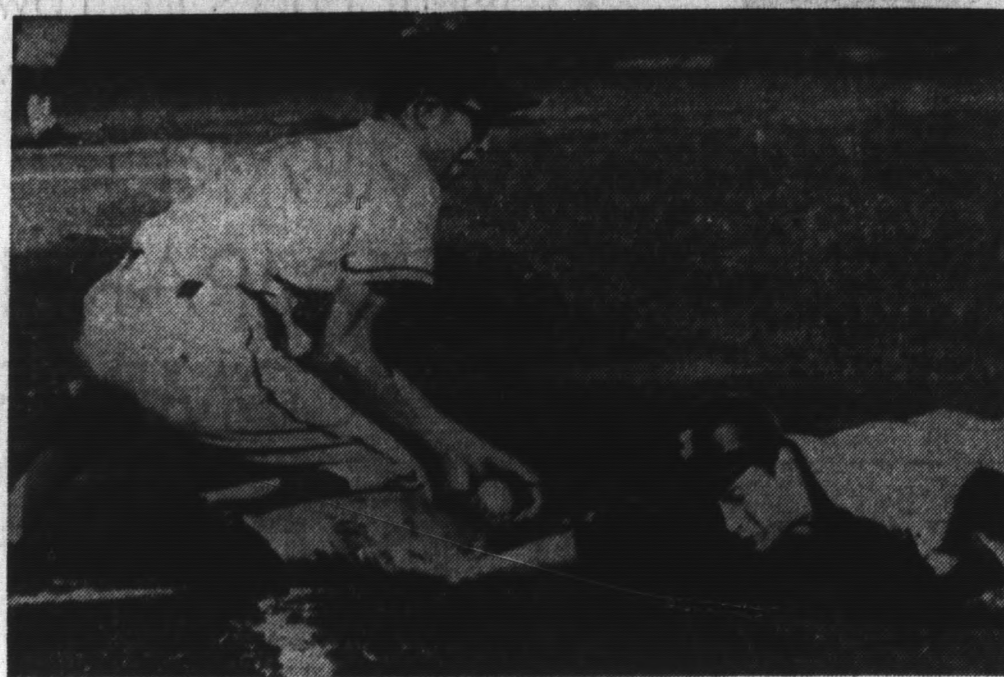

Jones was aided by the booming bats of Mick Ackley, who clouted a three-run home run in the first, and John Castellanos, who added a two-run round-tripper in the fourth. Jim Maule had a perfect three for three in a losing effort for the Tigers.

Meanwhile, South City was jumping right back into the title picture, as Coach Bob Brian used a well-juggled lineup to trounce Oceana, 8-1. For the first time in the season, the Warriors were able to put together an offense. They pounded out nine hits and took advantage of nine Shark errors.

Double Barrage
Vince Olson had two runs batted in, while he, John Dougherty and Ron Beall were pounding out doubles. Joe Maderos stole four bases for SSF.

The pitching chores were handled by Bob Aurigemma, who struck out seven and issued no walks in recording the win. Max Tellez accounted for the sharks' lone tally in the fourth inning when he slammed a home run.

In the other tilt, Westmoor continued along the upset trail as they handed Jefferson a 5-4 licking by tallying twice in the bottom of the seventh inning on a double by Corky Phelps. Jeff jumped off to a 1-0 advantage in the top of the second on an off-field home run by Barry, but the Rams tallied in the bottom of the frame for three unearned runs.

THIS PICK-OFF play worked to perfection last Friday as Westmoor first sacker Greg Agar, left, applies a neat tag to Jefferson's Len Hatton who was caught leaning the wrong way. The Rams surprised the favored Indians, 5-4, to put a crimp in the Jeffs' drive to the top of the North Peninsula League.

Last Tuesday the league was thrown into confusion by a key Westmoor upset.

Westmoor's 3-0 victory over the previously undefeated Colts, coupled with Terra Nova's 7-3 win over Oceana gave the Tigers undisputed possession of first place with a 2-0 mark.

In other action, South San Francisco stayed in contention by eking out a 2-1 decision over hard-luck Half Moon Bay at orange Park.

Westmoor tallied once in the first inning when Corky Phelps drove in Lee Williams with a single and twice more in the top of the third frame on a 380-foot homer over the left-field barrier by Joe Weinberg and a forced-in tally by Rex Arnott on a walk.

Camino stranded 10 runners during the game, while Westmoor left nine on base, Phelps went the distance for the Rams, striking out four, walking five and giving up but four hits.

Westmoor is now 1-2 in NPL play, while Camino slipped into a second place with a 2-1 mark.

In the Terra Nova-Oceana tilt, Monty Post blasted a 350-foot homer and drove in a pair of tallies and Bob Turner struck out nine men to lead the Tigers to their second consecutive victory. Turner, a sophomore, limited Oceana to just four hits and two walks en route to his win.

Getting a standout one-man show from Jasper Brown, Jefferson High School's track team bombed Terra Nova, 86-35, last Friday in a North Peninsula League meet.

Pimentel Prevents Shutout

NOT SURPRISINGLY, Half Moon Bay High School has had its troubles in this first year in the North Peninsula League.

The tiny coastside school, which numbers barely 450 students, added one more dubious mark to its growing collection of sad athletic results when the Cougars' track team lost to strong Westmoor Friday, 121-1. That's right—ONE.

But the boy that scored that one point has to be considered one of the school's few sports heroes today.

Roger Pimentel took a third place in the 120 high hurdles to prevent the ultimate in humiliation, the shutout.

WESTMOOR track coach, Bob Lotti, said Monday that he tried to ease up on the Cougars whenever he could: "We changed everybody around but it just didn't do any good. We just kept right on scoring."

Lotti reported that the Cougars have only 13 or 14 boys out for varsity track this year.

Westmoor also won the other two classes. The Rams' three divisions totaled 327 points to 10 for the Cougars. Naturally, westmoor won every first and second in the meet.

Still, Cougar fans are thanking their stars today for Roger Pimentel. And well they might.

Houston's prize rookie second-baseman, Joe Morgan, waited out N.L. pitchers for 97 bases-on-balls in 1965 to lead the league in that department.

Just No Time for Kashevaroff

By JOHN HORGAN

THE QUESTION of time—or the lack of it—seemed to be the last thing on the agile mind of Owen Kashevaroff as the athletic commissioner of the North Peninsula League relaxed in the sun-drenched courtyard of the El Camino High School teachers' lunch room.

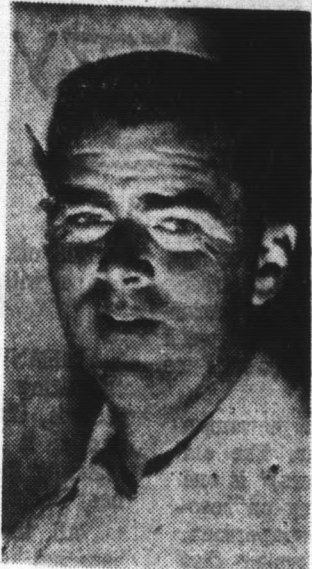

But time is a commodity of which Kashevaroff has little.

In addition to his duties as NPL boss, he is a full-time physical education teacher at El Camino, the head of the P-E department there, a full-time basketball referee during the cage season and the father of four children.

"It seems now that before (prior to his P-E chairmanship), when it wasn't quite so hectic, my time was my own," explained Kashevaroff. "I could go and visit the other schools when I had someone to visit. But now it's really hard to get out and spread myself around."

His job as commissioner of the growing seven-team NPL is a demanding one that has not been any bed of roses for the black-thatched San Francisco native.

"I remember that first year I took over in 1963," he continued. "It was the second year of the league,

OWEN KASHEVAROFF

we had six teams and lots of problems."

"I recall that relations between some of the schools were so strained at times that, for example, in four varsity sports that year, every athletic contest between Westmoor and South San Francisco was protested by one school or the other."

Kashevaroff, who makes his home now in Pacifica, took over the commission-ship from Paul Hamig who at that time was the league commissioner for the three Peninsula leagues: the South

Peninsula Athletic League, the Mid-Peninsula League and the North Peninsula League. As Owen put it: "It was just too much for one man to handle."

Kashevaroff was a P-E teacher at El Camino when he got the call to try his hand at being the league boss. The situation has worked out to the benefit of all concerned.

WHAT STARTED out as an admittedly haphazard and somewhat shakey proposition, the NPL has slowly emerged, under the guiding hand of Kashevaroff and others, into a stable circuit.

"With the addition of Serramonte High School in the near future (though a site has yet to be chosen by the Jefferson Union High School District) the league will have the necessary eight teams needed for proper scheduling," he said. "A lot of people said we ought to arrange our schedules with the MPL but that would not be fair to the smaller schools in our league."

"I know this league will grow and improve. The other coaches and administrators have been great to work with. We'll get along and work together."

KASHEVAROFF'S climb to the post of NPL commissioner has been a rapid one.

He attended Mission High School and San Francisco State College.

At S.F. State he played soccer, football and basketball. In soccer the husky coach was an All-American in 1952. He just missed making the United States Olympic team in '52 but was cut on the final day.

After graduating from State in 1953 and doing a hitch in the Army, he began his teaching career in 1958 at Spruce Junior High School in South San Francisco. It's name has since been changed to Alto Loma Junior High School.

When El Camino first opened in 1961 Kashevaroff was hired to a P-E post.

He was named chairman of the department this year. "I have been asked if there is any problem with being in one school's P-E department and also being commissioner of that school's league," he commented. "I can say truthfully that there is no conflict at all here."

Kashevaroff said that he feels that he can "do a better job for the school" but that he has been "thinking about going back to school to do some work on an administrative credential."

The only hitch in that idea, according to the coach, is time—rather, the distinct lack of it.

9-GAME SKEDS

E.C., S.S.F. Name Grid Opponents

South San Francisco's two high school football teams, El Camino and South San Francisco, have announced their nine-game 1966 football schedules for the coming season.

The Warriors of Ray DeJong who have won 16 straight games over a two-year span, feature and eight-game home schedule. SSF plays only Westmoor away from the friendly confines of Clifford Field.

Practice games with San Lorenzo, Capuchino and Burlingame are slated by the Warriors in addition to their six-game North Peninsula League agenda.

Burlingame was undefeated and untied last year and was ranked number one in the county by the Post-Times in 1965. South S.F. was rated second.

The Warriors are expected to feel the loss of several all-league players including the top twosome of Greg Jones and John Moro. However, an exceptional sophomore crop is being counted on to bolster their title chances. They have won the NPL diadem for two straight years.

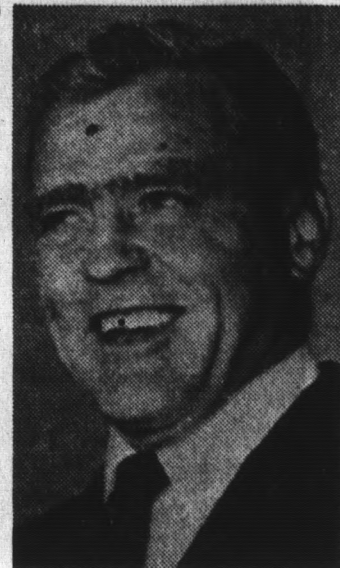

El Camino, which finished with a 4-1 mark last year, has scheduled five tilts at Clifford Field, its home field, and four on the road.

The highlight of the Colts' practice season appears to be an October 21 joust with strong Terra Linda of Marin County at Clifford Field.

According to coach Bob Sexton, "Terra Linda is really supposed to be tough next season." Sexton and his staff have also planned games with Aragon and Sonoma Valley, to round out their practice campaign.

The Colts failed to win a non-league game last year but went on to win all but one of their NPL encounters, losing only to neighboring South San Francisco.

Both schools will play Half Moon Bay for the first time in NPL competition. 1966 marks the Cougars' entry into the NPL GRID PICTURE.

Paoli Runs 880 in 1:57.9

Capuchino High School's Damon Paoli ran a brilliant 1:57.9 880 last Friday in his school's meet with San Mateo, but the Cappers still lost the MPL encounter, 80-41.

Paoli's time is one of the top 880 marks posted by a Northern California prep this season.

For the Bearcats, Ted Lydon set a school record with a 4:22.4 clocking in the mile.

It was the first time this year that Lydon had tried the mile. He is ordinarily a two-miler.

T. J. Delbex Leads CSM To Victory

College of San Mateo rallied for two runs in the top of the 12 inning to beat Diablo Valley College, 6-5, in a Golden Gate Conference baseball game last Thursday.

T. J. Delbex pitched nine and one-third innings of relief, allowing one run on three hits, while walking four and fanning eight to earn credit for the victory.

Tigers Host School For Horsehidors

Terra Nova's second annual North County Baseball School will be held this Saturday at the Terra Nova High School baseball field in Pacifica beginning at noon.

Director Al Figone, whose Terra Nova baseball team is currently in the thick of the North Peninsula League race, is predicting (weather allowing) another turnout of 300, the count for the school's inaugural last year.

Though essentially a Pacifica project, the school, as last year, welcomes participants from any area.

Figone has organized another fine instructional staff, which includes: Jim Davis, former Giant, Cub and Cardinal pitcher, who will handle hurling prospects; Nini Torney, former catcher for the old San Francisco Seals, who will instruct catchers and be in the batting cage; Rich Scramaglia, a junior high school coach and former All-Conference Stanford shortstop and professional, who will be charged with base running and the keystone combination; Terra Nova Frosh-Soph coach Roger Miller, an ex-Chico State infielder, who will teach the third basemen; Tiger JV coach Raul Saucedo, an ex-New Mexico outfielder, who will take charge of the pickets, and Le Pacini, Post sports columnist, in charge of first sackers.

Boys from eight to 12 will have the field from 12-1:30, with the 8 to 18's going from 1:30-3:30.

CSM Swim Team Routed

The College of San Mateo winning swimming team, undefeated in dual meets since last season's meeting with powerful Foothill, lost to those same Los Altos Hills crew last Friday, 67-28.

The Bulldogs recorded 23 lifetime bests but were still routed by what is considered the finest junior college swimming team in the nation.

N. County Baseballers Help CSM

North County athletes at the College of San Mateo are holding their own this baseball season according to statistics released last week by Bulldog statistician Fred Baer.

Ex-El Camino infielder Brian Cate hit .339 during the practice season to pace North County hitters.

Jerry Sullivan, former Jefferson first-baseman, hit for a .255 mark.

T. J. Delbex from Westmoor managed a .217 average. Cate led the club in doubles with six.

Sullivan led the team in strikeouts with 15.

Norm Angelini of Half Moon Bay and Serra was undefeated in the practice season, going 3-0. He fashioned a 1.8 ERA on 20 innings hurled.

Delbex was 0-1 with an ERA of 2.25.

Recreation League Baseball

Daly City Recreation Department Baseball Leagues will get under way Saturday with a full schedule of games at all the baseball diamonds in the city.

This year's baseball program involves five separate leagues. The Junior League is made up of boys in the eighth grade.

All games in this league will be played at Marchbanks Park and Jefferson High School.

The Intermediate League carries boys in the seventh grade. Games in this league are played at the North diamond of Westlake Park.

The Midget League, which involves sixth grade and under boys, is divided into three separate divisions. All games in the Midget League will be played at Marchbanks II, Westmoor Park, South Westlake Park and Colma School.

Games will be played on week nights at 6 p.m. and on Saturdays at 10 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 3 p.m.

Westlake Bowl

YOUNG STEVE HARGROVE accomplished the bowler's dream last Monday night as he bowled twelve perfect strikes for a 300 game. Although he is only two years out of the junior program, Steve carries a 193 average in the American 850 Scratch League.

It's "Hail to the Champions" week at Westlake as league champions are being crowned. Winners of the leagues ending last week were:

Country Club Handicap—Shadow Box Lounge
Southgate Mixed Fives—Westlake Barbers
Misfits Handicap—Valley Cavern No.1
510 Scratch Trio—Doris Poodle Shop
Lakeside Mixed Fives—Westlake Lounge
Westlake Wedlocks—A-1 Nursery

One pin separated the leaders in the American 850 Scratch League last week as Ron Pohley led the league with a 633 series on games of 202-186 and 245. Chuck York had to settle for second place with 632 on games of 200-226-206. Third honors went to Bob Grout for his 602 series on games of 222-160 and 222.

The First Lady has become the latest advocate of bowling for fun, relaxation and exercise. With her own ball, bag and shoes, she bowls regularly on the two White House lanes. Currently she is bowling in the neighborhood of 130.

There is still an opening on the Westlake team in the Wednesday Travel League which bowls each Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. This 20 team league bowls at a different center each week. Anyone interested may contact Rick Dreier wt 756-5777.

Leadership in the Good Fellowship League was strictly a family affair last week as Pat and Carroll Boux led the bowlers. Pat rolled a 159 game and 443 series to lead the ladies while Carroll topped the men with a 194 game and 540 series.

Assistant Police Chief Roy Beecher was high roller in the Mixed Up Fives League with 203-535 as Thelma Daher topped the ladies with 202-517.

Sea Bowl Notes

Tough Times For Smokers

THESE ARE uneasy days for the smoker. Gone is the age when poets and essayists celebrated tobacco as the friend of man, his solace in time of woe, the companion of his joys. All is now changed.

The cigarette smoker faces the scientifically supported connection between smoking and cancer and other diseases.

And if, as a consequence of all the alarms, he switched to a pipe or cigars, he is now confronted by the president of the American Dental Association. Doctor Maynard K. Hine of Indianapolis warns that because pipe and cigars generate more heat, they might be a "greater cause of oral cancer than cigarettes."

FOR THE CIGARETTE smoker the current news offers only one small consolation. President Johnson is in his corner, fighting an increase in cigarette prices.

Even this is confusing, since there is a certain contradiction between the federally imposed warning about the hazards of smoking and federal opposition to higher cigarette prices which could theoretically at least, discourage consumption.

MOREOVER, the cigarette smoker detects another inconsistency in the President's position. Johnson is resisting price increases by cigarette manufacturers, but is doing nothing whatever about the rising cost of tobacco, which has gone up more than 10 per cent recently under the government's price support program and which is cited as the justification for higher retail prices.

Johnson is tough in dealing with corporations. Tobacco farmers, like labor leaders, are another matter entirely. They vote.

The Modern 'Blind Date'

TURNING COMPUTERS into matchmakers is the current American campus fad. The older and staid among the citizenry probably will look askance at the idea of having a computer put its mechanical touch to young love.

Actually, the elders beat the youngsters to the plan by several years. A psychologist in Chicago operates a sort of high-level lonely hearts club, whose applicants are paired by computer.

But he isn't as trusting as the college computer operators. He requires the applicants to have interviews with specified local ministers, to try to weed out undesirables.

IT SEEMS strange that such matchmaking would be necessary on a co-educational campus where girl and boy meet with the greatest of ease. But if looked upon as just a new form of the venerable institution of the blind date, computerized romance makes some sense.

Just so nobody thinks the machine will be infallible. It will be as fallible as the people who operate it, and the people who give it the information.

Which is fallible indeed.

The Marquee

Hollywood Cosmetics

Barbara Bladen

IT ISN'T a coincidence that litigation over a perfume suit has been lodged in Cologne, Germany. That's the home of a men's cosmetics firm that since 1915 has manufactured 4711.

James Bond does get around, and he never loses a fight, but there's more than just a smell in the air over sale of eight items in Germany using the number 007. The Colgate-Palmolive Corporation of Hamburg, which is immortalizing the supersleuth to male purchasers in Europe, has been informed that "his number is up."

Warner Bros., which may now have more subsidiaries than Oscars, has branched out into the cosmetic business. The makeup department will be in charge of creating and producing the creams and lotions to be marketed only under the Warner Bros. label. The studio has owned the only cosmetic laboratory among the major film studios for the past 20 years. Originally intended for use by their stars and employees, this is the first time they will be available to the public.

WINDFALL $$$$$ Thornton Wilder receives a $7,000 check every week for royalties on "Hello, Dolly." He wrote the original script, sort of. Actually, his version, "The Matchmaker," which was a hit comedy of the 1955 season, was a rewrite of a rewrite of a rewrite.

According to researchers, the cycle began with a play called "A Day Well Spent," by John Oxenford, produced in London in 1935. That was followed by a German language version called "He Will Be the Devil of a Fellow," by Johann Nestory, which made its appearance in Vienna in 1942. Wilder changed the locale, adapted a few of the scenes and called it "The Merchant of Yonkers."

Herman Shumlin (original producer of "The Deputy" in New York) put it on Broadway in 1953 with Jane Cowl, Tom Ewell and June Walker. It was a dead issue 39 performances later.

Then the author rewrote his own rewrite and premiered it as "The Matchmaker" in 1954 at the Edinburgh Festival. It featured Ruth Gordon, Eileen Herlie, Sam Levene, Arthur Hill and Alec McCowen. David Merrick took it out of Tyrone Guthrie's management after the London production and presented it on Broadway in 1955 with Loring Smith in the Levene role and Robert Morse succeeding McCowen. The film version of this script was also a success.

And so the money comes pouring in. Carol Channing is scoring a $102,000 a week in Chicago; Betty Grable's portrayal is racking up $30,000 a week in Las Vegas; the Broadway edition with Ginger Rogers is drawing $70,000 and Mary Martin's London Dolly counts out the equivalent of $30,000 a week American money.

A total of 527 students attended the school when it first opened on double sessions. It now houses 357 students on single session. The first principal was Mrs. Eleanor Vanovich; the second Mrs. Elizabeth Kennedy and the third, the present principal, Jess Parks.

Spring Racketeers Make the Scene

Lorene Beasley

THE ANNUAL spring racketeer shows up along with the annual spring flowers. With the arrival of spring, roving, transient and irresponsible sharpsters of all types start their move across the country.

Old and well-known schemes are still being employed to dupe the bargain hungry consumer who becomes more clothes conscious this time of year.

The "suit club" promotion, widely used in the 1920s, is probably one of the oldest retail rackets. Suit clubs vary with individual promoters in presentation but basically, they remain the same promotional plan whereby a retailer uses the something-for-nothing lure to attract business his way.

He usually will enroll around 100 members in the "club," who in turn contract to buy a suit by paying small weekly payments to him over a period of 25 to 30 weeks. Fly-by-night promoters have been known to leave the area after the final payments have all been collected. In such cases the club members are left high and dry with nothing to show for their payments.

WHEN ALL the payments have been completed according to his contract, the club member is able to select a suit allegedly valued at the amount of his total weekly payments. In many instances the value of the merchandise has been grossly misrepresented by the promoter and often found to be of inferior quality.

The "club plan," whereby payments are made in advance against the purchase of some article at a future date, can be a perfectly legitimate method of installment buying of suits or any other type of merchandise.

The type of "suit club" which provides for the award of suits by lot or chance is considered unethical by Better Business Bureau.

Any "suit plan" or any other merchandise club which has a plan to provide for a weekly drawing during the 25 to 30-week period whereby a member may win a free suit and a refund of the money he has paid into the club, is considered illegal as well as unethical by Better Business Bureaus.

Any merchandise club which awards merchandise to a winner of drawings during the period of weekly payments involves the three essential elements of a lottery, namely, prize, chance, and consideration payments. As such, it is in violation of the postal lottery statutes if the mails are used and of state lottery laws wherever such exist.

IN ADDITION, suit clubs come under the prohibitory laws and regulations administered by the Federal Trade Commission if in interstate commerce and the Federal Communications Commission, if advertised over radio or TV.

Better Business Bureau reminds the consumer that reputable merchants sell merchandise on its merits and do not rely on unlawful gimmicks to attract business.

Unethical operations and rackets will cease to exist only when the public ceases to support them by investigating before investing.

Pacific Parade

They Added 'Em Up Like Crazy

Don Miller

TORRID ELECTIONS, freeway openings, riots by Hells Angels, monumental traffic jams and weather that went absolutely scorching descended on the North County last week to make it one of the most lively weeks we can remember in some time.

It was enough to make a newsman blanch and head for the bar. The old bromide, "It never rains, it pours," is one tired cliché that seems to hang on resolutely in the lexicon of newspapermen. However, we'll assert this morning that it neither rained nor poured news last week. It was, instead, a veritable monsoon!

The election, as expected, took top billing and we were impressed this year with the swift way in which votes were tallied in the offices of North County city clerks and speedily made available to the press and the public.

The almost hurricane vote tabulating was due for the most part to careful pre-election planning by city clerks and their staffs and to the teamwork of election booth personnel who all but sent results into headquarters via Titan IIs.

THE TITLE of "The City With the Fastest Results" was easily won by Pacifica this year, even though Pacificans were hotly embroiled in the liveliest council race in the North County, while almost angrily at the same time smothering three municipal ballot proposals.

Final results were posted shortly before 8:45 p.m. on a blackboard in a packed city council chamber. The first precinct had reported in shortly after the polls closed at 8.

Although there were nine candidates in the donkeybrook, the ultimate winners led right from the start. The mechanics of the vote gathering were supervised by City Manager Karl Baldwin. Votes were tallied in a conference room and then sent by runner to personnel manning the blackboard.

SECOND PLACE in the vote-tallying derby was shared by South San Francisco and San Bruno. Both cities had all votes totaled up by 9:05 and like Pacifica, they were posted on blackboards at city hall.

Art Rodondi, South San Francisco's city clerk, had high praise for his staff and for a new system of gathering and tabulating votes—a system developed, he said, "as a result of some thinking we did two years ago."

As election inspectors showed up with vote totals, the figures were entered on a three-part form. One part went to a central tabulating desk, another to the blackboard and the third to the press. Shortly before 9 p.m., all but two of the city's 30 precincts had reported.

At that point, Councilman Andrew Rocca was trailing both Roy Ghilardi and Warren Steinkamp. The final two precincts, however, were in Westborough and Rocca must have a legion of fans there, for the two precincts boosted him past both challengers for a 29-vote bulge over Steinkamp.

In San Bruno, the first results came in at 8:20 and came in so fast after that, said City Clerk Carl Hultberg, that there was no opportunity to determine any trends in the voting or to note any early margins by candidates.

The vote-gathering process in San Bruno, he added, hasn't varied in recent years and judging by the speed the whole thing is carried off, Hultberg probably isn't about to tamper with a going concern.

MEANWHILE, in Daly City, the vote tabulating went at a pace that broke all records. City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf reported, and if it hadn't been for some misunderstanding in Bayshore, Daly City might have beat Pacifica for the speed crown.

All the precincts except Bayshore had reported before 8:45 and when Bayshore continued to be a holdout, a quick phone call turned up the discovery that Bayshore election personnel had thought the results would be picked up by a messenger.

Instead, the precinct staff should have delivered the results themselves to City Hall. This was ultimately done at 9:20, and the final figures were then available.

The first results had come in at 8:10 and as the case has been for so many years running now that Anna has lost count, the results were proudly borne by Mrs. Helen Villalba of 115 Crocker Avenue who always has made it a point of being first to city hall with the vote from the precinct at the Shoemaker Garage at 347 Irvington Street.

The vote in many precincts, by the way, was so similar for the three winning incumbents that Messrs. DeBernardi, Dennis and Lycett were being referred to in some quarters this week as the candidates who ran on one voting machine lever.

For example, folks who voted at 64 Shakespeare Street cast 52 ballots for each of the trio while at Thomas Edison School it was 46-46-46 right across the board. In almost a third of 62 precincts, the three candidates' totals didn't vary more than a half dozen votes.

It was a solid vote for the "ticket," as the incumbents were referred to, and it made you wonder if maybe there isn't something to this business about strength in numbers.

MEANWHILE, just off the election stage and in the wings was the opening of Daly City's chunk of that concrete behemoth, the Junipero Serra Freeway. To Daly City old-timers, that old two-lane road that once was Junipero Serra must seem like a street that was built in pioneering days.

For Junipero Serra has gone from two to four to six and now to 10 lanes and the highway people tell us that someday it will be 12. In fact, at the rate things are going, they may even convert part of it to a jet runway.

One thing officials in the inaugural freeway caravan found out after starting out from the Washington Street overpass ribbon-cutting ceremony Thursday, was that the shortest distance between two points is not a freeway.

The cavalcade was bound for the Lake Merced Golf and Country Club for a civic luncheon and as the crowd flies, the distance was only three blocks. Yet to get there, the caravan had to drive two miles south to an exit ramp and then double back to Lake Merced.

HOWEVER, freeways and civic luncheons being what they are, they were all neatly upstaged Thursday by Miss Daly City.

Petite Susann Bernard softly allowed as how she's been engaged since December and will be married in July. Seems, she said, she just hadn't gotten around to telling anybody about it before.

The Book Shelf

National Library Week Is Cited

Samuel Chandler

TO SALUTE National Library Week I quote from a recent issue of Newsweek: "If you still associate a library with a tomb-like place where a kindly lady with a bun in her hair keeps saying 'Shshsh,' get with it! In the jet age a library is where the action starts."

Once a lady stood at my desk. "I want to know how to raise frogs," she said.

Frogs? "Yes, frogs. I have a deal to provide frog legs for a restaurant downtown." In a short time I secured for her a government publication that told her how to raise frogs and market their legs.

A young man looked me in the eye. "Would it be a miracle if it rained blood in Montana?" This started an investigation that proved that sometimes the rain that falls in the northern sections of Montana and Idaho is filled with red dust.

From this came a study of the nature of miracles and prophecy. Before it was finished the young man was reading the Bible with more understanding than he had ever known.

AN ELDERLY gentleman asked for information about nails. We found him a book with a chapter on the subject. As he tumbled through it he said, "This is just what I wanted. I'm building a room in the basement. This tells me what lumber to use and everything else as well as what nails to use."

So it goes—day in and day out—Daly City's public libraries are places where the action starts. You can see it in the smiles on the faces of little bits of children as Mary Poppins comes flying through the window or the cowboy finds his great horse Smokey. You can see it in the surprise that registers on the face of a young person who has discovered an unexpected turn of events in the life of Nancy Drew. You can see it in the pleasure a mother expresses in finding a book on the new math.

DALY CITY'S public libraries are service institutions. Their activities move around some basic concepts: to serve the community as a general center of reliable information; to encourage children, young people, adults to educate themselves continuously; to stimulate reading and discussion of critical problems; to promote democratic attitudes and values; to assist in the preservation of our precious freedoms; to help people keep abreast of progress in science and other fields of knowledge; to help people fill their leisure time with reading that will promote personal happiness and social well being.

"The habit of reading," Anthony Trollope wrote, "is the only enjoyment in which there is no alloy; it lasts when all other pleasures fade."

THE LIBRARIES are located at 6351 Mission; 275 Southgate and 129 Acacia. The doors are open 10-9 Monday through Friday; 10 to 5 on Saturday.

Art at the Library

MRS. DORIS WHITTLE and her daughter, Kathryn, 3, of 99 Castillejo Drive, Daly City, admire one of the paintings being shown in the Westlake branch of the Daly City Library by Pacifica artists. The show will run this month and throughout May and can be seen in the Coral Room of the branch at 275 Southgate Avenue. Paintings will be changed during the run of the exhibit.

Louanne's Datebook

By LOUANNE HEATH

DID YOU have a chance to visit the Frazer Memorial Garden, formerly the Japanese Tea Garden, in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park, during the Easter week?

If you haven't treated yourself to that experience lately take advantage of one of these lazy summer days and go for a leisurely stroll among the dwarf magnolias, rhododendrons, azaleas and, naturally, the magnificent cherry trees. Top off the afternoon with a cup of tea and you'll feel as refreshed as you would after a brief vacation in a land where time is unimportant and the only senses that have purpose are those of sight and smell.

The every-day turmoil that most women experience while trying to do the myriad of chores and errands expected of modern day wives and mothers doesn't leave too much time for contemplation of anything deeper than the grocery store advertisements. Why not take time out once in a while for a little activity designed purely to refresh your own inner being? The grace and beauty of the tea garden lends itself most admirably to a solitary walk amid a setting that will encourage you to consider things other than the mundane day to day problems and it will give you a whole new perspective on life. It's better than a doctor's prescription!

A LITTLE help was just what the doctors and staff volunteers needed at the Mental Health Center in Westlake and that is just what the members of Girl Scout Troop 124 are donating, a little help.

The girls, under the leadership of Mrs. Harry Heinse and Cherie Ansaldo, spend one afternoon in the center each week sorting toys in the nursery area and cleaning out cupboards.

According to Mrs. Roy Tierney, publicity chairman for the Center, about 20 of the girls from patrols one, two and three are taking on this particular responsibility as a part of their service program.

Something new, and of interest to everyone who enjoys artistry in water colors, is the One Man Art show currently on exhibit in the center. Mrs. Margaret Ward, a member of the Society for Western Artists, has 45 paintings, mainly experiments with fractured light, in the show and all the works are being offered for sale to benefit the continued growth of the volunteer program at the North County Mental Health Center.

An interesting and outstanding book will be the subject of the Book Review sponsored by Friends of the Library on Thursday, April 28 at the Westlake Library on Southgate Avenue.

Sugar... 'n' Spice

By NELL NORTON

ALMOST THREE years ago a friend gave me a recipe for a cake that sounded interesting since it called for fruit cocktail as its main ingredient. I placed it with the other recipes that I wanted to test and pass on to you good cooks and just forgot it.

Fortunately another friend asked me just last week if I had such a recipe as she had eaten the cake and wanted to make it for her family. This was just the impetus I needed. I fished out the recipe, baked the cake and served it as dessert, topped with whipped cream, to Easter dinner.

You good cooks will enjoy this cake I'm sure. It's very easy to make, the ingredients are inexpensive and the result is a rich and most delicious dessert. Before you start to bake the cake be sure to follow this most important direction... DRAIN THE FRUIT FOR FOUR HOURS BEFORE MIXING.

FRUIT COCKTAIL CAKE

- 1 cup flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 2 eggs beaten
- 1 can fruit cocktail (No. 2 1/2 size can)

Beat eggs and add the sugar, beat together until light and frothy. Add the dry ingredients, flour and soda that have been sifted together, and blend well. Lastly blend in the well drained fruit cocktail. Pour into well greased nine x nine-inch square pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for 45 minutes. Cool and serve with whipped cream. Serves nine to 12.

NOW THAT we have a delicious dessert planned, how about thinking about the entree? Just last evening I tried out a new way to serve chicken and my family thought it delicious so I'll pass it on to you.

BAKED BARBECUED CHICKEN

- 3 lbs. chicken parts
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup cooking oil
- 2 Tbsp. sugar
- 2 Tbsp. vinegar
- 2 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 1 Tbsp. prepared mustard
- 1 can tomato sauce
- 1/4 cup water
- 1/4 cup tomato catsup
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 clove garlic

Place seasoned flour in a clean paper bag. Shake the chicken in the bag to coat it with flour. Then cook slowly in hot fat in a skillet until lightly browned.

Make a barbecue sauce by cooking the celery, and onion in oil in a saucepan until tender. Remove from heat and add the brown sugar, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, prepared mustard, lemon juice, tomato sauce, water, catsup, salt, pepper and clove of garlic. Simmer for twenty minutes. Remove garlic clove.

Arrange chicken in a greased, shallow casserole. Cover with sauce. Bake covered for 45 minutes, then uncover and bake 15 minutes longer in a moderate oven (350 degrees). Serves six.

THIS CHICKEN is delicious served with rice, green salad and peas. Of course French bread adds to any meal, so serve it, too.

While we are thinking about entrees I'd like to pass along another delicious casserole that will take its place as one of your favorites. It's quite rich and very easy to make and for those who do not care for highly seasoned food this is a perfect dish.

DELISH-DISH CASSEROLE

- 1 pkg. noodles, 8-ounce
- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 Tbsp. butter
- 2 cans tomato sauce, 8-ounce
- 1 cup cottage cheese
- 8 ounces cream cheese
- 1/4 cup thick sour cream
- One-third cup chopped green onion
- 1 Tbsp. chopped green pepper
- 2 Tbsp. melted butter

Cook noodles according to package; drain. Skillet-brown ground beef in 1 tablespoon butter. Stir in tomato sauce and remove from heat. Combine cottage cheese, cream cheese, sour cream, onions and green pepper.

In a buttered 2-quart casserole, spread half the noodles, cover with cheese mixture, then cover this with remaining noodles. Pour melted butter over the noodles. Pour meat sauce mixture on top. Bake in 350-degree oven for 20 to 30 minutes or until hot. Serves six to eight.

'Two to Israel in 1966' D.C. Boy, Girl Win Ten-Week Trip

TWO DALY CITY teen-agers Friday night happily learned that they've been chosen to visit Israel this year as part of a "Two to Israel in 1966" program, sponsored by the high school class at the temple.

The soon-to-be travelers are Glenn Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cohen of 640 Clarinada Avenue and Eleanor Werner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Werner of 25 Oakmont Drive.

The youngsters will spend ten weeks in Israel. Their visit will include working on a kibbutz, seeing historical areas and learning Israeli songs, dances and folklore.

THE TRIP was made possible by a fund-raising campaign initiated by Rabbi Herbert Morris. He conceived the program as a way of allowing two students to visit the birthplace of their religion and culture.

Half of the funds for the trip have been raised—and will continue to be raised—through car washes, candy sales and other projects, conducted by the members of the high school class.

The other half will be provided by the families of the winners.

Announcement of the winners' names was made after Friday evening services at Temple Judea.

A Bit of History

ARTHUR J. BODIEN, former Daly City Councilman and a former member of the San Mateo County Historical Association, presents bronze plaques he cast in 1933 to Daly City Librarian Samuel Chandler. The plaques contain the names of winners of an annual Abraham Lincoln essay contest, conducted then by the Jefferson Elementary and High School Districts. (Post-Times Photo)

Old Plaques Given D.C.

One of Daly City's longtime residents, a former councilman and a former member of the San Mateo County Historical Association, has added two valuable bronze plaques to a growing collection of Daly City historical items and memorabilia.

The donor, Arthur Bodien (above, right), presented the plaques to Daly City Librarian Samuel Chandler (above), who is collecting the items on behalf of a historical committee.

The plaques were cast by Bodien in 1933 and contain the names of winners of an Abraham Lincoln essay contest that used to be conducted annually by the Jefferson Elementary and High School districts.

The name of a winner in each district was added annually to a plaque for the district.

When the contests were discontinued, the districts presented the plaques to Bodien as a token of appreciation.

Daly City Personnel Board Completes Pay Hearings

The Daly City Personnel Board last week completed its series of public hearings on requests for salary increases for city employees.

At the Thursday night meeting, the board heard requests from Arthur Reschke, city engineer and director of public works, for pay hikes for members of his department.

Seven separate requests were also presented by heads of divisions within the department.

Raises requested ranged from two-and-one-half to 12-and-one-half per cent.

Already heard from in separate board hearings were the police and fire departments, and the municipal employees' union.

The Personnel Board will now review all of the information

Nocturnal Visit At Mary's Help

The staff of Mary's Help Hospital, normally a trusting group, became suspicious and called Daly City police Saturday morning when two men arrived to repair the elevator.

In the first place, the time seemed a little odd. It was 3 a.m.

QUIET FUNERAL

A Hells Angel Is Laid to Rest

By GEORGE GOLDING

An "angel" was buried last week at Golden Gate.

He was Larry Dean Lucas, 24, who lived near the Cow Palace and rode with the Hells Angels Motorcycle Club.

He had also served in the U.S. Navy, and was given a military burial with a naval honor guard firing shots over the grave and a naval bugler playing "taps."

The ceremony itself was quiet and dignified at Larson Garden Chapel in South San Francisco. More than 50 members of his family and non-motorcycle friends attended.

The casket was closed, for Lucas died near Santa Maria when he spilled off his bike on a rain-slicked highway and was run over by a hit-and-run car.

Above the casket stood a spoked wheel of flowers a broken wheel with one part of the circle missing to signify that Lucas had died the way he had lived, with his bike, and that he would not be riding again.

Members of the family did not mingle with his motorcycle friends. They were well-dressed and quiet and kept to themselves in their grief.

The riders, too, were quiet in the chapel and kept to themselves.

They wore their riding clothes, Levi's or Frisco Jeans, sweat-shirts, T-shirts, or no shirts at all, and their Levi jackets with sleeves ripped out but bearing the club emblems.

Hells Angels, Frisco; Gypsy Joker, San Jose; The Disciples, Livermore; Hells Angels, No. 1; Hells Angels, Richmond; Night Riders, San Jose; Acres

Wild, Hells Angels, Eastbay, and Hells Angels, Daly City.

They came on 56 motorcycles, and in a dozen cars, and they brought their girls.

The girls' hair was often shorter than the men's shoulder length tresses, and some of the girls wore stretch pants and moccasins instead of jeans and boots.

Some of them were beautiful, and some looked hard, but the ceremony and the flowers brought tears to their eyes and to the eyes of some of the Angels themselves. Even one bearded and hulking six-footer wiped his eye, and shuffled out.

For a few minutes, the riders occupied half the seats in the chapel, and then most of them moved outside and across the street into the parking lot of Our Redeemer's Lutheran Church, where their motorcycles waited.

Toward the end of their ceremony, the booted men jumped on the kick-starters of the big Harley 61s and 74s, and sudden thunder thrummed into the chapel.

They waited until Larson's hearse moved into El Camino Real, followed by the family cars, and then twisted their throttles and dumped their clutches, and rode along after the procession.

At the cemetery, they grouped their bikes some distance away from the hearse and family cars, and stood circled around the grave as the shots were fired and the minister committed Larry Lucas to the hereafter. They shed more tears, they bowed their heads and crossed themselves, and they took flowers and snapshots as souvenirs.

S.S.F. Newcomer Is Victim Of Savage Attack in Garage

A pretty young telephone operator who has been in California only one week, was brutally assaulted in the carport of her South San Francisco apartment last week.

Margaret McRae, a petite brown-haired lass from Montana, had just driven into her carport at 508 Mayfair Avenue at 3:30 a.m. when a stocky six-footer walked up and accused her of speeding.

As she turned, to deny the charge, he grabbed for her, covered her mouth, and said he would kill her if she screamed.

She struggled to get away, and the grey-suited man swung at her, hitting her in the nose.

Blood gushed from her broken nose, spattering her clothing, her car, and much of the garage where the grim struggle went on, while unknown neighbors slept.

The man hit Miss McRae again, and she began screaming.

Finally she broke loose and ran from the garage and into the arms of neighbors finally aroused by her screams.

The man disappeared.

Miss McRae was rushed to Mary's Help Hospital, where she was admitted for treatment of a fractured nose and multiple bruises and abrasions of the face. She was reported in satisfactory condition today.

She told police she had come to the Bay Area only a week ago, to seek work. She had friends in the area, she said, and had visited them during the evening before she was assaulted.

She said she did not know the man who attacked her, or know anything about him other than she learned during their struggle in the dimly lighted garage.

Limited Use Of Television Seen at CSM

College of San Mateo has no intention of going too far, too fast in its use of television for classroom instruction.

"We're still very much in the experimental stage; we're trying to feel our way forward a step at a time," Phillip C. Garlington, the college's director of instruction, told the board of trustees.

Garlington's remarks came as he reported on an evaluation study of CSM progress in the use of classroom TV at a meeting of the trustees on the campus.

By way of contrast, Vice President William A. Goss told the board of a Florida college which had embarked hurriedly on a big-scale TV instructional program, only to come a cropper.

"As a result," he said, "they've lost what they might have gained, and have returned pretty much to the old way of doing things."

So far, CSM's program has been limited to some of the health education and anthropology classes.

"In sampling student reaction, we've learned a great deal," said Garlington. "We know that wherever possible, it's wise to mix in some 'live' discussion along with the TV lectures, and we've also decided that shortening the lectures and giving workbook assignments afterward on what has been said will help the students retain what they've been taught."

Despite the college's gradual approach, Garlington expressed high hopes for TV's future on the campus.

CSM is one of only two junior colleges in the nation with its own television station (KCSM-TV Channel 14), and Garlington said increasing use of its facilities in the classrooms will "add greatly" to the impact of instruction as time goes by.

In other business on its meeting agenda, the trustees:

1. Set district policy on student transportation for 1966-67, providing for the first time for persons living in South San Francisco Unified School District. Voters of that district last year approved annexation to the junior college district, effective July 1, 1966, and beginning next fall, students from South San Francisco will be issued free round-trip bus tickets to downtown San Mateo. From there, as is the case with students from all such outlying areas, they will pay their own fares to the campus.

2. Learned that the big expansion project in the student center will be sufficiently completed by April 26 to permit use of the new areas.

Pacifica Woman Wins Contest

AN ORDINARY husband would hit the ceiling if his wife returned from an afternoon shopping trip with $300 worth of merchandise.

But Don Stephen, a mailer for the Wall Street Journal, just smiled.

His wife Donna won the goods in a Westlake Shopping Center promotion last Thursday.

Mrs. Stephen said she just happened to be at the shopping center with her son Gregory, 2½, and decided to stay for the 2 p.m. drawing because her boy was having such a good time.

When it came time to award certificates exchangeable for $500 worth of merchandise, Mrs. Stephen had the winning ticket.

SHE WAS given a shopping basket, an assistant, and set off with Gregory to collect her loot.

Her first stop, she said, was H. Liebes, where her efforts to choose a dress were hampered by the excited crowd which followed her into the store.

By the time she got to Westlake Foods, she said, she had room for only four canned hams in her basket, and in a little red wagon she had chosen at the toy store to help haul the prizes.

The biggest item she chose was also the most expensive, Mrs. Stephen said. At Sterling Furniture, she picked a $40 lamp, which the store gave her in exchange for her $30 certificate.

At a loss as to what she should choose at the auto supply store, she called her husband, who joined her there.

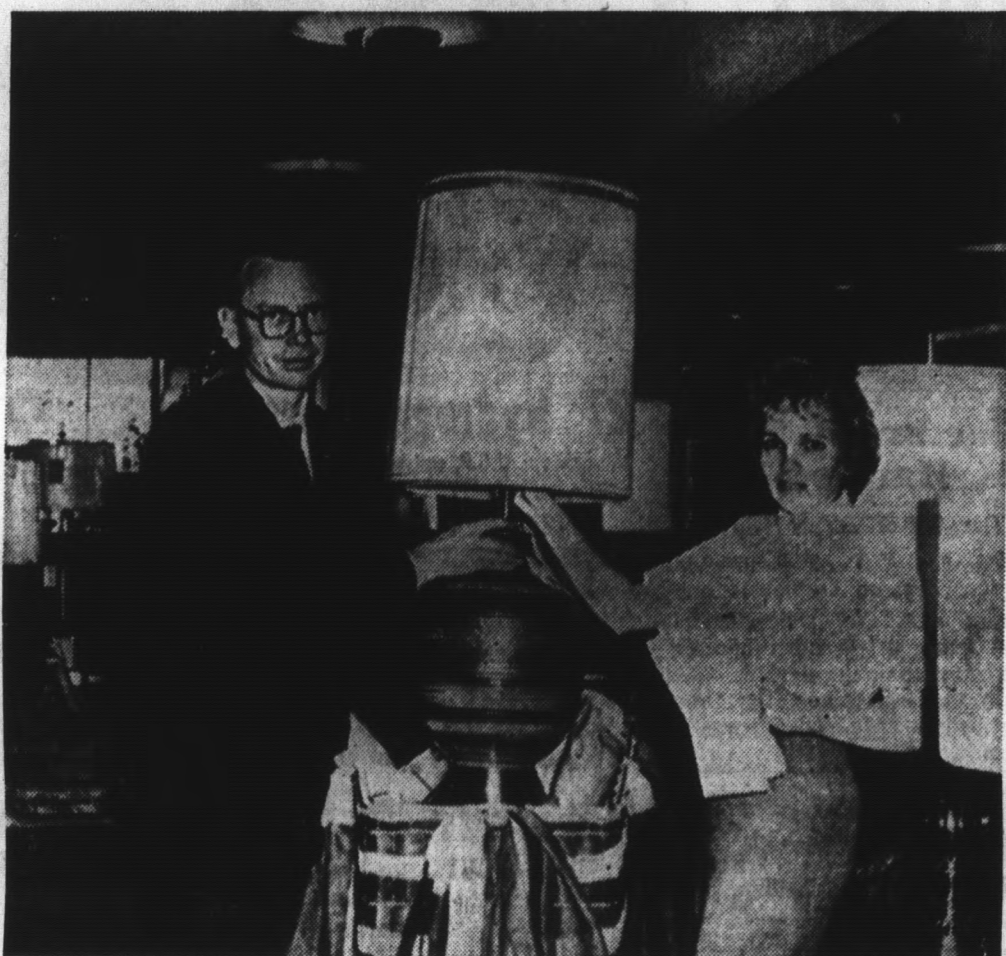

Gregory followed her through two and a half hours of the shopping, until a friend arrived to take him in tow.

The Stephens, who live at 1152 Fassler Avenue in Pacifica, have two other sons, aged 12 and 14.

MRS. STEPHEN said she was completely surprised at her good luck, and added that she has been a steady shopper at the center ever since it opened.

FINALLY DONE — Completely pooped after her tour around the mall, Mrs. Stephen, right, and Charlotte Levine relax.

... Still Bargain Hunting

STILL GOING — Don Waite, the manager of Sterling Furniture, aids Mrs. Stephens in her fling.

County May Land State College Site

The new four-year state college proposed for the San Mateo-Santa Clara County area has a 2-1 chance of being located in San Mateo County.

The State Board of Education's campus planning committee officially pared the original 13 proposed sites to three last week for more in-depth study for the new college. Two are located in this county; the other in Mountain View.

The committee met at Stanislaus State College in Turlock, in February, when the state committee took all the sites under advisement.

A final selection hopefully will be announced at a board meeting at California Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo on June 1.

Selections were based on the survey findings of the Mario Ciampi and Associates architectural consulting firm of San Francisco. Ciampi had made brief presentations on all the sites at planning committee and citizens advisory committee hearings in Redwood City in February, when the state committee took all the sites under advisement.

The three sites, in order of their selection, are:

1. The Edgewood Hills site (the committee's Site 6), 320 acres just west of Redwood City, bounded by Edgewood Road, Lakeview Way and Hillcrest Way.
2. A 345-acre site in Mountain View just north of Moffet Field and east of Bayshore Freeway which is now farmland.
3. A 385-acre plot of gently sloping farmland just south of Half Moon Bay (site 8).

"DENTAL HEALTH FACTS"

Regular Dental Care.

Reduction of the consumption of sugar, proper tooth-brushing can do much to reduce the prevalence of dental decay in children. All dental decay, however, cannot be prevented. There is no substitute for regular visits to the dentist.

Your children should pay their first visit to the dentist between two and one half and three years of age, shortly after all their primary teeth have erupted.

There are a number of advantages in early and frequent visits to the dentist:

- (1) tooth defects and dental disease can be detected and corrected in their early stages
- (2) the dentist can observe and correct irregularities in the growth of teeth
- (3) pain can be prevented
- (4) the cost of care can be reduced.

Dr. Campbell limits his practice to the making of dental plates, partial plates, removable bridges and extractions for some; however, he recommends that you see your dentist at least twice a year in order to help prolong the use of your natural teeth as even the beautiful modern dentures are not as efficient as healthy, natural teeth.

NORTH COUNTY RACES

Incumbents (Except One) Returned; Proposals Lose

A ballot-box uprising across the North County last week buried bond issues in an avalanche of "No's" and unseated one incumbent in five city council races.

As the returns piled up, it became clear that only Daly City had avoided the storm. There, incumbents Micheal DeBernardi, Edward Dennis and Bernard Lycett rolled to an easy victory with a 2-1 major-council seats.

In Pacifica, three bond issues suffered one of the most overwhelming defeats ever seen locally.

With a two-thirds majority required to pass, the bond issue to purchase beaches was swamped 3,166 (no) to 1,656 (yes); a bond issue for senior housing was rejected, 2,993 to 1,834. But the voters reserved their greatest scorn for a proposed civic center. The bond issue for this was buried by an avalanche of 3,449 against, to 1,354 for.

Mayor James Fox had backed the bond issues, along with a number of leading citizens.

Two of Fox's fellow councilmen, of three running, survived the storm. Don McMannis (2,029) and Harland Minshew (2,864) were returned to office. But Fred Ballew (1,892), was swept out in the tide of votes that brought in Nick Gust (2,686), Pacifica restaurateur, as the new councilman.

South San Francisco returned its incumbents, but not by much.

Patrick Ahern (2,788) survived easily in the seven-place race for two seats.

But Andrew Rocca (1,664) found Warren Steinkamp (1,615) planning commission chairman, and Roy Ghilardi, assistant building inspector (1,610) hot on his heels, with the vote uncertain until the last two of 30 precincts was tallied.

In San Bruno, 23 per cent of the voters turned out to return three incumbents, Karney Barberian, (2,009), Neil Christal (2,203) and George Ingham (2,036) easily outdistanced two opponents by several hundred votes.

In Colma, Mrs. Rena Vallergera and Ray Ottoboni beat out former Mayor Fred Barbini, in an election that returned Blanche Lagomarsino, unopposed, as town clerk. Mrs. Mary Vera Ryan, won a three-way race for treasurer.

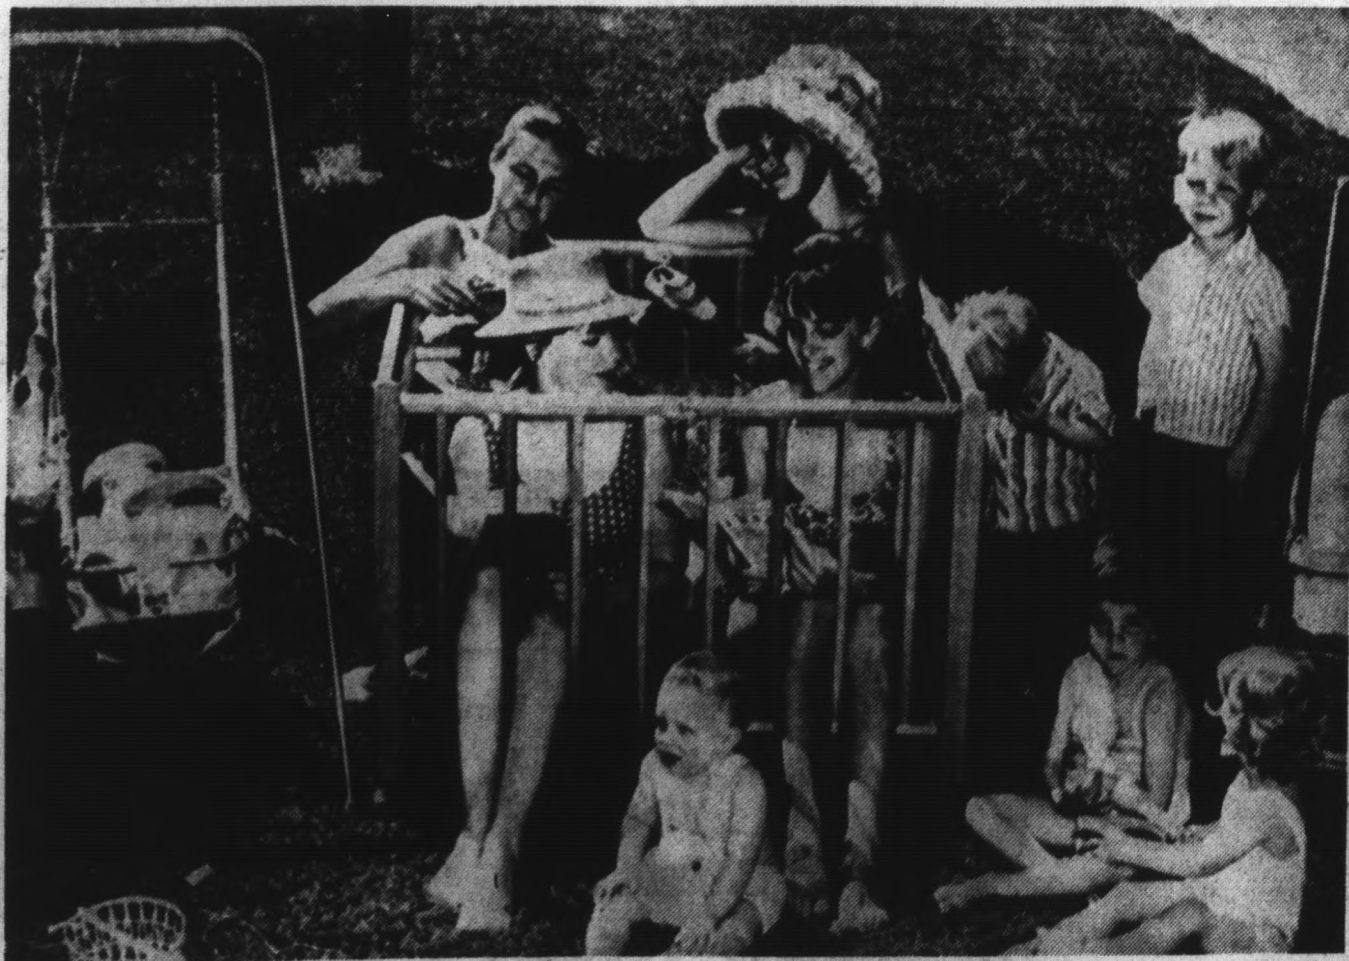

The Daly City incumbent landslide followed the picture of all three incumbents running as "a ticket" emphasizing their candidacy with "good government" posters in blue and orange.

When the vote results came in, the incumbents were never more than a few votes apart. Daly City this year is faced with a number of momentous projects, including a civic center under construction and a rapid transit terminal station. Dennis won a fifth term. Veteran DeBernardi has 12 years on the council.

D.C. Chamber Honors Mae Haaland

THEY CALLED it "Mae Haaland Day" and before it was over, there wasn't a dry eye in the house.

For a gathering of appreciative directors of the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce, the honoring of their "Gal Friday" was a heartfelt way of saying thank you for more than 13 years of devoted service.

The occasion was a testimonial luncheon for Mrs. Mae Haaland who has been Chamber Manager Peter Markovich's secretary since 1952 and thus, in effect, has been the chamber's secretary for this time. She has announced she will retire May 1 and return to her native Chicago.

MRS. HAALAND was honored Thursday by speeches, telegrams and gifts and she was visibly moved by a standing ovation that rocked the banquet hall of Val's Redwood Room Restaurant in Daly City.

And when it came time for her to speak, she was overcome with emotion and unable for a moment to rise and acknowledge the plaudits.

Daly City Postmaster Vincent Murphy, chairman of the testimonial, summed up the sentiments of directors when he remarked solemnly:

"We're losing our right arm with Mae moving from the area."

Murphy read several letters and telegrams of tribute to Mrs. Haaland, who wore a huge corsage presented to her prior to the luncheon by the chamber.

THE MOST moving talk of the program was given by Markovich who, also obviously affected by the occasion, spoke slowly and affectionately of his aide's work and loyalty over the years.

Mrs. Haaland responded by referring to Markovich as "a wonderful guy" and said she would miss Daly City where "everybody says 'hi, Mae,' when I walk down the street."

Reluctantly absent from the luncheon were Daly City councilmen and other Daly City officials who were attending a civic banquet in connection with the opening of the city's portion of the Junipero Serra Freeway.

Chamber President Edward Morgan explained that city officials had tried to postpone the freeway opening a week but had been unable to do so because of commitments on the part of top state leaders who had planned to attend the opening.

C of C Lauds State, City And Builder for Freeway

Directors of the Daly City Chamber of Commerce Thursday passed a resolution, commending state highway construction and city officials for what was termed "a minimum of inconvenience" caused by the building of the city's portion of the Junipero Serra Freeway.

The portion opened Thursday. A civic luncheon celebrating the occasion was held at the Lake Merced Golf and Country Club while directors were holding their monthly meeting in Val's Redwood Room Restaurant.

Chamber President Edward Morgan, in suggesting the resolution, noted: "Very few of us have been inconvenienced very much by this swath (the freeway) cut through the city."

In other action, trustees voted to establish a $100 scholarship to honor the memory of John Mongan, principal of Jefferson High School, who died Tuesday morning, in Mt. Zion Hospital in San Francisco.

Morgan termed Mongan's death a "loss to the entire community." He said contributions may be forwarded to the chamber at 6454 Mission Street in Daly City.

In other business, Elio Fontana, chairman of the chamber's annual student awards dinner, said that 110 persons to date have indicated they will attend the dinner, April 21 in Joe's of Westlake Restaurant in Daly City.

Her termed the response "excellent" and noted that the turnout will create problems. The restaurant banquet room seats 100 persons. He added, however, that "there will be a place for everybody."

A report on the chamber-sponsored Miss Daly City contest was given by Co-chairman Evert Terminello, who said that tickets for the dinner at which the new Miss Daly City will be chosen are now on sale.

The dinner will be held Thursday, May 26, in the South San Francisco Elks Club.

GAUGES, HOSE STOLEN

Carl Reynen of 960 Wildwood Avenue, Daly City, reported to police yesterday that two pressure gauges and 150-feet of rubber hose had been stolen from his truck, parked in front of his house.

D.C. Council Approves Lot, Shifts Funds

Daly City councilmen last week approved a use permit for a parking lot on the northeast corner of Castillo Street and Geneva Avenue, as requested by Philip Luzzi of San Francisco.

Luzzi said the lot would be used by an adjacent business during the day, and by Cow Palace patrons at night.

The council specified that a barrier must be erected between the lot and the sidewalks, and that no left turns be permitted from the lot onto Geneva Avenue.

Also on the agenda for the meeting was the yearly transfer of departmental funds. Even as an ordinary citizen does, the city finds itself with too little money in some categories, and an occasional surplus in others.

And each spring, the city "juggles" its books to place the money where it is needed for the remainder of the fiscal year, which ends June 30.

In this case, councilmen approved transfers of funds to cover such diverse expenses as employee overtime and sharpening of lawnmowers.

Other council business included approval of a variance to allow construction of a room and terrace at 183 Santa Paula Drive, and tabling of applications by Thomas J. Callan for rezoning from single to multiple family residential of six lots. The tabling, councilmen explained, is virtually the same as denying the applications, since no further action is taken.

A Boost From the Lions

GIRL SCOUT Troop 8 of Daly City was given a hefty push last week, in its drive to raise sufficient funds that will enable the 26-member troop to visit Washington, D.C.

The Daly City-Colma Lions Club presented the troop leader, Mrs. R. L. Eversole, with a check for $500 at the Lions Club's luncheon meeting at Toto's Restaurant and Pizzeria.

With Mrs. Eversole were troop members Wendy Woolery, and Marilyn Eversole, the troop, leader's daughter.

AT THE LUNCHEON Mrs. Eversole and the girls explained the drive for funds this way:

At a meeting held several months ago, the youngsters decided to visit the nation's capital in August of 1967.

From its annual cookie sale, car washes and other enterprises, Troop 8 managed to raise $385 towards its long-range aim of at least $5,000.

IN MAKING the presentation to the Troop, Rino Ceccato, president of Daly City-Colma Lions, said:

"After all, this is what Youth Welfare funds are supposed to be used for."

But Washington is a couple of thousand miles away. Troop members acknowledge and Troop 8 still must raise $3,615 before Abraham Lincoln's kindly visage is viewed.

TWO MEMBERS of Girl Scout Troop 8, Marilyn Eversole, center, and Wendy Woolery, smile gratefully as they hold check for $500, presented to the Troop by the Daly City-Colma Lions Club. Check will be added to funds being collected to finance a trip for members to Washington. At left is Rino Ceccato, president of the club, who presented the check. (Post-Times Photo)

La Touraine One of The Best for French Cuisine

THREE NAMES that should go down in the Peninsula's "Who's Who in the Restaurant Business" are MARIE BROSSIER, MAURICE BROSSIER, and ERNEST LUISETTI, owners of the well known LA TOURAINE restaurant in Burlingame. Seems like only yesterday that we were discussing the opening of this French cuisine restaurant, and Maurice asked what I thought about French food being the main menu theme. I readily agreed that the Peninsula would respond wholeheartedly. Today, the La Touraine is one of the most popular restaurants in the Bay Area serving this type of delicately seasoned food. The luncheon and dinner menus, featuring the authentic dishes of France, rate with the nation's best. Incidentally, if you're one who always "saves room for dessert," the La Touraine is tailor made for you. Such tasty treats as home made French pastries, Crepes Suzette, Cerises Jubilee, Coupe de Fraises Chantilly (in season), and Omelette Norvegiene are big favorites here. Who cares about calories! Eat and enjoy living—that's just what you will be doing when dining at the Burlingame La Touraine.

WHEN IT COMES TO FINE FOOD, Plateau 7 in San Jose is hard to beat. The elegant sky-high gourmet restaurant which covers the entire top floor of the new Swenson building on First Street, owes much of its success to General Manager Jack Waller, who is well qualified when it comes to the restaurant business. Dean Martin's charming 22-year-old daughter, Claudia, was here for her new movie, "Ghost in the Invisible Bikini," and she dined at Phil Lehr's new Wellington Room at his Steakery. Phil created a new Claudia Steak Wellington in her honor. The Hotel Canterbury's outdoor Garden Patio is open seven days a week for luncheon, and you can enjoy their famous Ramoz Fizz Brunch on Sundays. If you enjoy beautiful scenery and warm weather, plan now to visit the Crystal Bay Club on the north end of Lake Tahoe. Relax in one of the elegant cocktail lounges, dance nightly to the music of the Versitones, enjoy the gaming casino, and feast in the restaurant of your choice.

HANS SCHEIDEN, food expert of Palo Alto's plush $5 million CABANA MOTOR HOTEL, and his lovely wife will be leaving these parts soon for the sunny shores of Hawaii. The dining room executive has accepted a top spot in Honolulu. Lots of luck, Hans. Don't forget to keep BRIGHT LIGHTS informed on your new venture. STARK NAKED and THE CAR THIEVES with singer DAVE DUNN, the GALAXIE stars who have been signed by a top H'wood recording firm, will sky South to wax some singles. The city has dozens of Italian restaurants, but only one that specializes in the fabled food of Rome. ENNIO'S on Kearny Street, San Francisco, which opened recently serving luncheons, now serves dinners also because of the heavy demand for delicacies like truly homemade Ravioli and Cannelloni prepared by ENNIO DE ANGELIS, who is a marquis, born in Rome. On a recent trip to Rome, Ennio visited dozens of restaurants—looking for more authentic dishes to serve his dining patrons.

HAL AND BETTY BOHANNON are celebrating the "Grand Reopening" of their popular San Jose restaurant, this week, following the completion of a $40,000 remodeling and expansion project. Deep red carpets, rich mahogany paneling, and comfortable black leather armchairs highlight the decor of the posh new dining room, private party room and cocktail lounge. BOHANNON'S has been famous for warm hospitality and superb steaks, prime ribs and Ring Neck Pheasant since 1944. It's a favorite lunch and dinner spot for folks driving down to Monterey and Carmel. If the sedate quiet of L'AUBERGE, the charming French restaurant near Atherton is disturbed during dinner by a motor racket, don't fret. It's probably only Louis, the urban maitre d', arriving for work on his motorcycle. Another of the Frenchman's interests is his '41 four-door Packard which he likes to tool around in. It's perfectly preserved (the car, not Louis).

Patrons who haven't seen the colorful "new look" at the Cote D'Azur in Atherton have been missing out on one of the most beautiful remodeling and redecorating jobs ever to hit a suburban sophistication dining establishment. Owned by ex-furniture executive Dan Biagi and master chef Rene Canabou, the Cote D'Azur features, in addition to its many gastronomical delights, lunch-on-fashion shows every Wednesday afternoon, along with pianobar entertainment every Monday through Saturday by talented pianist August Amador.

The current issue of National Geographic Magazine has a 20-page story on the recent Balloon Races in Reno, which were sponsored by the Nugget in Sparks, East Reno.

George Tribelhorn is doing a bang-up job at the enchanting Castaway restaurant at Coyote Point, San Mateo. George took over the top spot of general manager here last week, replacing Mike Pavelka, who left to open his own business. Polynesian in decor, the exotic Castaway is famous for its food, atmosphere and panoramic view.

The Murray Lehrs are back at the Hotel Claremont after their annual Easter holiday at Acapulco. By the way, Lehr has doubled the size of the dance floor in his Terrace Room, where Will Baranco's combo plays for steppers on Friday and Saturday nights.

Harvey Kaye And The Larks Tiger A-GO-GO

Bill Gilbert's Tiger A-Go-Go Club is currently being treated to the talents of Harvey Kaye and The Larks featuring one of America's best-loved entertainers, the one and only Kenny Winston. The well-liked group offers something for everyone—sweet swing to wild jazz. Also on stage each night, are Bill's numerous Tiger Kittens, who have been lauded by the nation's top columnists as being the most beautiful, shapely, and ultra-feminine girls ever.

Mary Ann Hay, vocalist at Nick Gust's Pacific restaurant, will be on hand at the San Mateo Organ Center on Third Avenue Thursday, April 21, to personally autograph her first LP album, "Mary Ann With Love." We all love you, too, Mary Ann. Good Luck!

The Gary Long Trio, who boasts a record run of over two years at Fred and Jerry Rapp's South San Francisco Holiday Inn, have won more than a dozen popularity polls for their well-polished tones of delight, both instrumentally and vocally.

George Cerruti and his swinging trio continue to keep things "jumpin'" at the Villa Lounge, Villa Hotel. The Villa's Coffee Shop is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week and there's plenty of free parking.

HYATT HOUSE ASSISTANT GENERAL MANAGER—Mr. Clark Jones, who has been associated with hotels in the Midwest, and most recently with the Water Tower Inn in Chicago, has joined the Burlingame Hyatt House staff and will assist General Manager Ed Sullivan in this highly successful hotel, restaurant, cocktail lounge, and entertainment operation.

For a new adventure in dining, try the Cottage on the corner of California Drive and Sanchez in Burlingame. It's like having Sunday dinner at home. Owned by veteran restaurateurs Dar and Ida Wolfe, who have owned and operated hotels, restaurants, resorts and bars throughout most of the United States, the Cottage, although open less than three short weeks, has already proven to be an instant success.

Everything is cooked exclusively in butter, hors d'oeuvres are served in Lazy Suzans, the pastries are home made and the prices are unbelievably low. Stop by soon—

The red carpet awaits you at Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City. The theme being set to Stanford's Red and White, this well-established dinner house would be a great place for the former Stanford greats to gather for special parties.

I'm a firm believer in Standard Oil service, after witnessing an incident which occurred last rainy Monday evening at the Third Avenue and El Camino service station in San Mateo. As I drove in, word went out that there had been an accident just down the block. Quickly, the "boys in white" reorganized (being sure that their customers' cars were properly serviced) and sent one of their crew, equipped with a first aid kit, to the scene of the accident to assist. Mission accomplished, he was back on the job just as if this had been a part of his daily shift.

Meringue Maybasket Brings Spring to the Table

Please don't eat the daisies, but do sample this beautiful Maybasket. Made of meringue and filled with Strawberries Romanoff, our Meringue Maybasket is a spring delicacy fashioned to dress up the coffee table any time. With creamy white shill and dainty flower decorations, it's almost too beautiful to eat. But wait until you've had your first taste! The meringue simply melts in your mouth and the ice cream-strawberry filling is as cool and sweet as a May day.

If you wish, the meringue rings may be prepared and baked a day in advance; the Strawberries Romanoff must be made and put in the shell just before serving.

Coffee For a Garden Party!
If there was ever a dessert that prompted partying, this one is it. But you don't have to look very far. Mother's Day is on its way—the time to do something special for the lady who's always doing things for you. All you need is a warm afternoon, a Meringue Maybasket, and lots of freshly-brewed coffee. Just be sure the coffee is as fresh and fragrant as spring flowers. Arrange the refreshments on a table outside in the garden or on the patio. Everyone should feel free to walk around the grounds, sipping coffee and enjoying the real Maybasket flowers that Spring can bring.

Meringue Maybasket (xx)
1/4 teaspoon salt
6 egg whites
2 cups granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vinegar

1 teaspoon vanilla
Make a circle paper pattern 8 1/4-inches in diameter. Set aside.
Add salt to egg whites. Beat at high speed until soft peaks form. Turn to low speed. Add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition. Add vinegar and vanilla. Beat at high speed 10 minutes longer.

Lightly grease several baking sheets. Place circle pattern on one sheet. With pastry tube, pipe a ring of meringue 1/2-inch wide around perimeter of pattern. Remove pattern. Repeat, making 6 rings.

Starting at center of one meringue ring, pipe meringue in a spiral fashion to fill in circle completely. This makes the bottom of the Maybasket. Repeat with a second meringue ring to make the lid.

Now, go back and widen the 4 remaining meringue rings by piping a border of meringue about 1-inch wide and 1/2-inch high on each ring. The rings will form the sides of the basket.

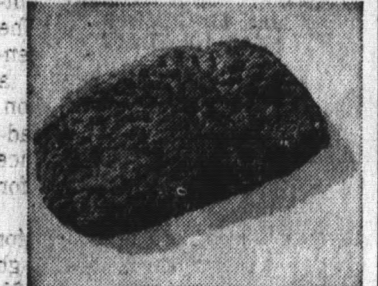

Preheat oven to 275 degrees. Bake meringues 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 250 degrees. Bake 15 minutes longer, or until creamy white and delicately firm. Remove to racks and cool. (This may be done the day before.)

Make another batch of meringue, using half the recipe (few grains salt, 3 egg whites, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon each vinegar and vanilla). Assemble the basket by stacking rings on Maybasket bottom using some of the meringue as "glue" to hold rings together. Now coat the entire shell and the lid with meringue. Pipe ribbons on the shell of basket, and flowers and leaves on the lid. Dry the shell and lid in a barely warm oven. Cool when thoroughly dry.

With a fine brush and vegetable food colors tint the leaves and flowers if desired. Fill the shell with Strawberries Romanoff and place lid lightly on top. Makes 12 servings.

xx—Note: You will need an additional "half batch" of recipe for assembling.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Beef cubed steak.

Q. Where does it come from? How is it identified?

A. Cubed steak comes from several different sections including the beef chuck, sirloin, sirloin tip, round or short loin. They can be identified by their square or rectangular appearance as well as by the small cubed effect left by the machine that tenderizes them mechanically. Some cubed steaks are made from a single piece of meat while others are made from several pieces but all give the appearance of a single piece.

Q. How are they prepared?

A. They may be prepared by pan-frying or braising. To pan-fry, place a small amount of lard or drippings in the frying-pan and brown the cubed steak on both sides. Cubed steaks are lean so the extra fat is needed for proper browning. To braise, brown the meat on both sides in lard or drippings, then add a small amount of liquid or a sauce like a barbecue type, cover tightly and cook slowly until done.

Bread Meat To Prevent Drying Out

When Mrs. Homemaker wants to serve topnotch nutrition as well as a gourmet's delight, she should select one of the variety meats. The protein, B vitamins and iron found in them are essential to health.

When preparing kidneys, one of the variety meats, the most important point to remember, is to cut out the hard, white portions from them. Coat the meat with egg-milk and seasoning, then in bread crumbs to keep it moist and flavorful while it's fried.

SAVORY KIDNEYS

1 pound kidneys
Vinegar
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
2 teaspoons dill seeds
1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1/4 cup lard or drippings
Remove membrane from kidneys. If veal or beef kidneys are used, cut into pieces about 1 1/2 inches square. If pork kidneys are used, cut in half lengthwise then cut in pieces about 1 1/2 inches square. If lamb kidneys are used, cut in half lengthwise. Remove hard, white portion from all kidneys.
Dip kidney pieces in vinegar. Combine egg, milk, salt, mustard and dill seeds. Dip kidneys in egg mixture then bread crumbs. Brown slowly on all sides in lard or drippings, about 20 to 30 minutes. 4 servings.

Cream Puff Appetizers

When you're preparing appetizers for parties, consider tiny cream puffs which are filled with creamed dried beef. Prepare the puffs from regular cream puff batter allowing a teaspoon of the batter for each puff. These may be made in advance, filled with dried beef mixture and the whole puff reheated just for serving.

Another idea uses Vienna-style sausages which come in cans. For these cut bread into 1/4-inch squares, place a Vienna-style sausage on each slice, then fold over two of the ends of the bread. Fasten with wooden picks. Place in broiler for just a few minutes to toast the bread lightly.

Culture and Cuisine Blend in a Setting All Nature's Own

In the spring, nature uses all her wiles to tempt us outdoors, and always, she is irresistible. We venture out to see the plants and flowers and trees as if for the very first time and, inevitably, we find ourselves in that center of natural beauty, a garden.

The pavement of a city is just about the only place where seedlings don't push through. Yet even in the midst of the metropolis, hidden behind the office buildings, a few rare pastoral retreats come to life.

One of the most unique is the Sculpture Garden of the Museum of Modern Art in New York City.

When the air is balmy and the sun is bright, tables and chairs appear on the light grey marble patio. Slightly above the sunken garden, the patio faces a scene of bubbling fountains and weeping birch, bordered by a bed of marigolds.

Nature and Art

All through the day, you can join others at the little tables to lunch on tasty sandwiches and fragrant coffee and contemporary art. The sculptures of such masters as Rodin and Henry Moore.

As your eye moves from the green foliage to the priceless art, you can't help but wish that the whole world were a garden as lovely as this.

One spring, for the people of 18th Century London, this wish very nearly came true. During the reigns of the Georges over 200 years ago, the English countryside was patterned with the intricate designs of rococo "coffee gardens."

Although the local coffeehouse was still the haven for the country squire and urban gentleman, coffee and urban gentlemen, coffee literally came out into the open with the development of the garden.

Lady Is Barred

The proper English lady was practically barred from the coffeehouses and she rejoiced to find a place of public entertainment where women as well as men were free to drink a good cup of coffee in a congenial atmosphere.

Judging from the success of coffee gardens, men began to realize that women might be good coffee companions after all, particularly for a stroll down the picturesque walks or a tete a tete in a shady arbor.

Art in Gardens

From April to September, as soon as the warm weather came and as long as it lasted, the gardens of Vauxhall, Ranelagh, Marylebone, and Cuper's were open for a new season. The boxwood hedges were clipped in perfect symmetry, and elaborate fountains and flower beds appeared on every path. Statues by Roubilliac and his contemporaries decorated the grounds and pictures by Hogarth, Haydon and others hung in the pavilions.

Usually, there was no admission charge and the only expenses were for refreshments. A patron could buy a light snack of cheese cake or custardy syllabub to have with his coffee, while cold cuts were also available for heartier appetites. Ranelagh offered "The Elegant Regale," consisting of coffee, bread and butter, for the price of half a crown.

Vauxhall and Ranelagh were the most popular gardens of fashionable London society. Located on the Surrey side of the Thames, in 1732 Vauxhall became a center of social and cultural activity.

Besides the neat walks and alcoves, there were bowling greens and skittle grounds for ninepins. The main attraction of the afternoon was often an outdoor concert on the promenade or the launching of a giant balloon. On a gala eve, fireworks dazzled the sky and couples dined and danced under the stars.

Ranelagh had most of the features of Vauxhall plus the Rotunda. A circular building 150 feet in diameter, the Rotunda had tiers of box seats and a place for the orchestra in its center. The audience could take refreshment at their seats or move to the surrounding gardens for more scenic coffee drinking.

American Gardens

Only a few years after coffee gardens reached full bloom in London, their American counterparts opened on the outskirts of New York City. The first was Vauxhall on Greenwich Street which offered a wonderful view of the Hudson. Ranelagh appeared on Broadway with band concerts twice a week and a large hall for dancing.

Many gardens flourished for a while and died, but Ranelagh lasted for twenty years. In 1828, the San Souci Gardens were built on the site of a circus and the original stadium was kept to be used for concerts and plays. Advertisements for the gardens invited patrons for breakfasting as well as evening entertainment, and hot rolls and fresh coffee were served throughout the day.

Traditional coffee gardens have passed from the scene, but the seeds of their popularity blossom each year in many different forms. In New York, the charm of Philharmonic Hall, with its musical promenades and outdoor cafe, is strongly reminiscent of the Rotunda at Ranelagh.

Hint of Long Age

Though Central Park's open air concerts and summer Shakespeare festival also hint of the gay times long ago, the potential has barely been touched. Recently New York City's Parks Commissioner stated that if parks were places of lights and entertainment more people would join the fun—and less would come to spoil it. The outdoors, a pleasure in themselves, can be doubly rewarding when blended with the fruits of a cultured society. Perhaps in the future American cities will raise an even richer crop of gardens.

Top-of-Range Cookery For Good Taste

Preparing meals on top of the range is the style reserved for warmer weather when you don't want the oven on for an hour or two or more.

Canadian-style bacon is a tender cut that is cured and smoked. Tasting like ham, it needs only short broiling or pan-broiling to heat and brown for this recipe.

A quick-fix pineapple-raisin sauce goes well with this meat which provides a delightful emulsified sweet potatoes, a green salad and a fruit shortcake for a seasonal supper.

FRUITED CANADIAN-STYLE BACON

8 slices Canadian-style bacon, cut 1/4-inch thick
8 slices pineapple
1 cup raisins
1 cup pineapple juice
1 cup water
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons cold water

Brown bacon slowly on both sides in frying-pan. Remove bacon. Brown slices of pineapple slightly in drippings. Simmer raisins, pineapple juice and water for 10 minutes. Thicken with a mixture of cornstarch, salt and 2 tablespoons cold water, stirring until the cornstarch is cooked. Return bacon to pan. Pour sauce over the bacon and pineapple and simmer slowly, 15 minutes. 4 servings.

Brown Meat For Flavor

When the meat cut is divided in pieces or left in a large piece to be cooked by one of the moist heat methods, brown before adding liquid. Why? Browning, especially when seasoned flour is used, is a way to develop more palatable flavor—as well as attractive color. Stews and pot roasts, as an example, are a richer color when they're browned first.

Another method used for preserving flavor is the use of low temperature for cooking: no matter what the process, meat will not dry as readily with moderate temperature cooking, as with high temperature.

Delightful Lemon Souffle for Dieter

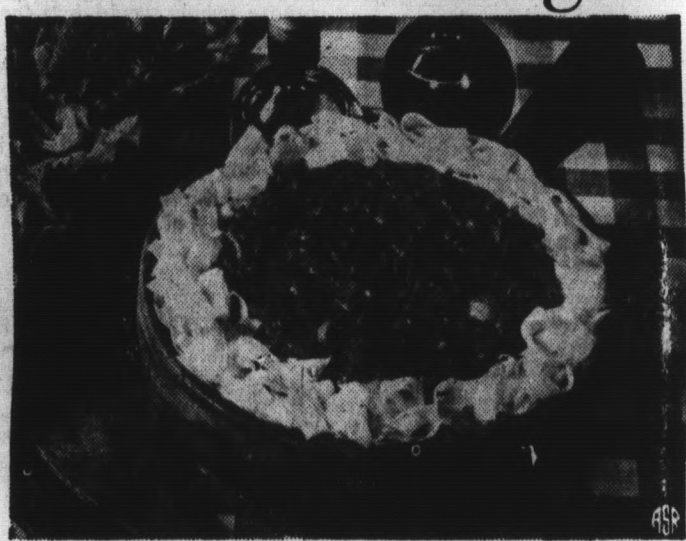

At a luncheon you'll often find several women who are dieting, as well as many who appreciate low calorie foods. However, many fancy desserts you'd like to serve mean added pounds. This special dessert is one that solves your menu dilemma a delightful, fluffy Dieter's Lemon Souffle garnished with fresh strawberries. Surprisingly, a generous serving contains less than 75 calories, because the dish is made with low-calorie bottled lemon juice, noncaloric liquid sweetener and nonfat dry milk.

Dieter's Lemon Souffle

Add sweetener and bottled lemon juice; chill until partially set. Mix nonfat dry milk with 1/2 cup cold water; whip until soft peaks form. Gradually add sugar, continuing beating to stiff peaks. Beat in food coloring to tint pale yellow. Fold into gelatin mixture. Pour into a 2-quart mold; chill until stiff. Unmold and serve with strawberries. 8-10 servings (about 75 calories each).

Try Busy Day Beef —Dish for Budget

When budget-minded ground beef is coupled with staples from the cupboard, high fashion beef stroganoff comes off the quick and easy way. Canned tomato paste and beef consommé are instant flavor partners for the sauce, while evaporated milk blends the whole to the desired rich creaminess. As the savory beef mixture simmers in the skillet, noodles can be cooked to complete the dish.

Quick Beef Stroganoff

- | | |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 1/2 cup butter | 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder |
| 1 medium onion, sliced | 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce |
| 1 cup chopped green pepper | 1 can (8 oz.) tomato paste |
| 1 1/2 pounds ground beef | 1 can (10 1/2 oz.) beef consommé |
| 1/2 cup flour | 1 cup evaporated milk |
| 2 teaspoons salt | |
| 1/2 teaspoon pepper | |

Melt butter in a large skillet. Add onion, green pepper and ground beef. Fry over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until meat is browned and onions are tender. Remove from heat. Sprinkle in flour, a little at a time, blending well after each addition. Add salt, pepper, garlic powder and Worcestershire sauce; stir to blend well. Slowly stir in tomato paste, consommé and evaporated milk. Cover skillet and simmer over low heat until thickened slightly, about 15 to 20 minutes. Serve over hot cooked noodles. Makes 6 servings.

Mocha Cake Shines At a Spring Coffee

Good recipes never disappear. Revised and refurbished, they remain popular over the years — like this wonderful Scandinavian Mocha Raisin Cake. In the old days, when breakfast boasted many courses, the Norwegians enjoyed this delicious cake after breakfasting on porridge, fish, potatoes, bread and lots of steaming coffee.

Today, the cake is a kaffeeklatch favorite, dressed up with a lacy topping of confectioners' sugar. Serve it in the company of your finest coffee, full-flavored and freshly-brewed.

Mocha Raisin Cake

- | | |

| 2 cups strong coffee beverage | 2 eggs, unbeaten |
| 2 tablespoons breakfast cocoa | 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour |

Fruit Fantasies, accented with a dressing of sour cream, mayonnaise and tangy American blue cheese, will be a delight to family and guests. The salads are fun and easy to make. They will certainly add a touch of springtime to your table. Shown here are Fruit Kebobs, Swan Salad, and Daisy Salad. A hollowed-out pineapple holds the delectable dressing. Popular American blue cheese is budget priced at grocery and food stores.

Fruit Fantasies For Spring Season

All sorts of fruits may be used to concoct refreshing salads for your spring luncheons or dinners. Cherries, fresh strawberries, tangy pineapple, sweet apricots, crisp apples, smooth bananas, plump peaches and many others can be used to build your "Fruit Fantasies." Here are several suggestions for Fruit Fantasies to help stimulate your imagination. The

Design Hot Sandwich For Lunch

A tasty hot sandwich served with bowls of hot soup and pieces of fresh fruit is just the thing to serve to your family on these chilly Saturday afternoons.

French Toasties are easy-to-prepare sandwiches using the old standby—bologna. Zippy flavor is added to the sandwich with a spread made of mayonnaise and salt and peppery American blue cheese. The sandwiches are then dipped into an egg mixture and fried.

Steaming hot bowls of cream of tomato soup or bowls of chicken or beef broth and fruits of the season will complete your nourishing lunch.

FRENCH TOASTIES (Serves 4)

8 slices bread
8 slices bologna
1/4 cup crumbled American blue cheese
1/4 cup milk
Pinch of sugar
2 tablespoons butter

Place 2 slices of bologna on each of 4 slices of bread. Mix blue cheese and mayonnaise together. Spread on remaining 4 slices of bread. Make sandwiches.

Beat eggs, milk and sugar together. Dip sandwiches on both sides, into egg mixture. Fry sandwiches in butter until golden brown on both sides. Serve hot with soup and fresh fruit.

Two-Way Iceberg Use

Western iceberg lettuce is the most suitable variety for shredding and chopping because of its crispness.

To shred, cut lettuce lengthwise into halves, place cut-sides down on board and cut with sharp knife across heart. To chop, cut across shredded strips.

Toss shredded iceberg with ripe olive wedges, sliced radishes or chopped apple and real mayonnaise to moisten for a springtime cole slaw.

Heap chopped lettuce as a garnish in the center of gelatin ring salads. Give bright color to meat and salmon loaves by sprinkling chopped iceberg on top.

A hollowed-out pineapple holds the delectable dressing. The dressing is a sweet and tangy blend of sour cream, mayonnaise and zesty American blue cheese. The pungent flavor of the blue-marbled cheese is a natural companion to the sweet fruits.

Swan salad is canned pea halves "cemented" together with tinted cream cheese. The head is carved from a whole apple. Her eye is a slice of clove. Daisy salad is made quickly from apple slices cut with a daisy cutter, then brushed with lemon juice to prevent the apples from darkening. The gay centers are colored miniature marshmallows. Green pepper makes the stem and leaves.

FRUIT FANTASY DRESSING (Makes about 2 cups)

1 cup sour cream
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup crumbled American blue cheese
1/4 cup pineapple juice
Pinch of sugar
1/4 cup crumbled American blue cheese

Blend first five ingredients together until smooth. Stir in remaining American blue cheese. Chill until serving time.

The newly aligned northern boundary of the district now runs down the center of King Drive.

Directors also reviewed plans for construction of water and disposal facilities of the new Greenview Commons subdivision, to be built at Westborough Boulevard and Limerick Drive.

USDA CHOICE BEEF IS SELECTED RIBBON!

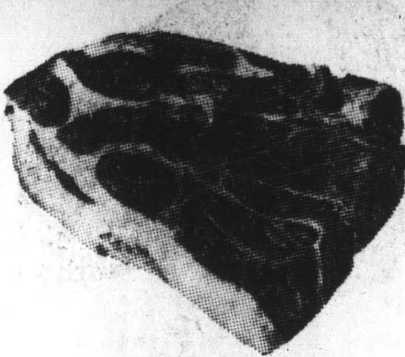

MAYFAIR'S UNIQUE POLICY OF "DOUBLE SELECTION" GUARANTEES YOU THE BEST OF USDA CHOICE BEEF!

Here's how it works:

- Our own meat buyer makes a weekly trip to the packing plant. There, from beef that has already been graded "Choice" by a Department of Agriculture official, Mayfair's buyer makes his own selection.
- Out of 100 sides of USDA Choice Beef he will select perhaps 10 which in his opinion are worthy of the Mayfair Blue Ribbon.
- Our meat expert actually imposes Mayfair's ultra-high standards on top of the US Government's standards for USDA Choice Beef.
- You may be certain that the 10% of the USDA Choice Beef our buyer selects will be the very best beef money can buy! He selects the kind of beef YOU want: younger steer beef with less waste, less fat, more juicy, tender, red meat per pound.

Trustees Question Safety Devices on School Boilers

How safe is a safety device on a boiler and would a double safety valve double the safety factor?

These questions occupied the attention of trustees at last week's Jefferson Union High School District meeting after trustees received a report on a fire box boiler explosion at Westmoor High School.

The report, submitted by Fred Goodell, assistant superintendent, described damage to a boiler at Westmoor at 3 a.m. on April 4.

Apparently, an accumulation of gas was remaining in the fire box when the gas supply was ignited to re-fire the boiler, Goodell said.

Ordinarily, the fire box is blown clear of gas accumulation in an automatic control cycle, which failed in this case, he said.

Subsequent damage to the boiler, insulation and fire brick, was not covered by boiler insurance.

Goodell said that the district's insurance company had recommended that the district install a double safety valve with a vent to the outside on all of its boilers to prevent any future explosions.

Trustee James Cooper questioned whether or not the valve failure might have been spotted in an inspection.

Supt. Edward Morgan said the present boiler insurance policy called for highly-trained people to check boilers.

An electrical contractor in the audience described to trustees the incompetency of many boiler checks.

"Sometimes it takes three different specialists to check a boiler system," he stated.

Cooper said he agreed and asked for competent engineers. Goodell said he would make a review of all boiler systems and institute periodic checks.

Several trustees agreed that the safety factor lay more in the competence of the boiler examinations than in the addition of extra automatic control.

Viet Stand Rapped By Congressman

Congressman J. Arthur Younger received a standing ovation from members of the Pacifica Rotary Club last week following his address on federal issues facing Congress at the present session.

Younger, in a question and answer period declared that he is vigorously opposed to any steps in the Viet Nam war that will endanger our 230,000 American boys fighting for us there.

"These men must be given the best arms, the best equipment and the best facilities that America can produce to conclude this situation and should not be hampered in their duties," Younger declared. "And if we're not going to give them 100 per cent support, then we should bring them home fast."

Younger declared that in this critical time that the administration is wrong in not cutting back on domestic federal programs calling for spending of millions of dollars.

The congressman is especially critical of introduction of new federal programs.

"The only cuts that the administration has made are on the things that, in fact, should not be cut such as school lunch program, milk for underprivileged children at school, land grant colleges and pest control," Younger said.

Younger was introduced by Stanley R. Vander Hule and Edward Hoague, president of the club presided. The meeting was held at Nick's in Rockaway Beach.

Younger Hits A Provision Of Medicare

Congressman J. Arthur Younger criticized a provision of Medicare program in a talk before Pacifica Rotarians at their luncheon meeting last week.

Younger said: "In the Medicare program, the only requirement is that one be 65 years of age. I feel that this portion of the program is wrong."

"Young people even with low incomes will be paying for medical care of millionaires," he criticized the Administration for being opposed to a financial means test that would screen applicants.

"It is an imposition," he stated, "to take money from young people to pay for old people who don't need it."

He said that he felt because the program is free, people will take advantage of it—regardless of their income.

D.C. Resident Honored In Washington

A Daly City man—P. Edward Smith of 75 Park Manor Drive—is among 43 Department of the Interior employees presented with Distinguished Service Awards by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall.

The presentation took place this month in Washington, D.C. Smith, a 36-year veteran of the National Park Service, was present with his wife and son Leonard, a College of San Mateo student; another son, Edward, who flew to Washington from Germany, where he is stationed with the Army, and his daughter, Mrs. Marcia Stephens, and her family who live in Indiana.

The ceremonies, which honored recipients for "outstanding records or exceptional contribution to the public service," included presentation of a certificate of commendation and a gold medal.

Edwards, who has lived in Daly City for 11 years, is presently chief of contract administration in the San Francisco office of the park service.

Commission Plays Hooky

The Daly City Planning Commission, which passes on plans for building, zoning and such matters, had some plans of its own last week.

The commissioners, whose job it is to advise the city council on planning decisions, decided not to hold their regular meeting which fell on election night.

The reason, members said, was that a quorum—at least three of the five members—could not be present.

Man Carrying Puppy From House Arrested By Owner

A dog-lover who let his feelings for pets transcend the law was seized on a citizen's arrest early last Wednesday by a Daly City resident.

Byron M. Ensinger of 115 Westline Drive told Patrolman James Van Pelt his wife had discovered a man standing in the kitchen when she went to prepare breakfast about 6:30 a.m.

The wife then dashed upstairs and alerted her husband. Ensinger said he saw the man leave the house with a puppy and after checking, found a puppy missing from a litter in the kitchen.

The man was identified as Guy V. Williams, 26, of Berkeley.

13 Chambers Hold Meeting On Air Week

The San Bruno Chamber of Commerce, which has succeeded in uniting some two dozen competing airlines solidly behind the chamber-sponsored "Aviation Appreciation Week" next month, has scored what appears to be another first.

Yesterday morning representatives of 13 Peninsula chambers of commerce agreed to meet to discuss their possible participation in what has become a county-wide project.

It may well have been, according to San Bruno Chamber Manager Dick King, the first time the Peninsula chambers have ever gotten together for anything.

And, he added, "We hope that it may be the beginning of a permanent arrangement."

The aviation week, originated by King's chamber, will include exhibits, displays, films and other promotions by the airlines, in co-operation with local merchants.

By proclamation of both the San Bruno City Council and the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, the week-long observance is set for May 15-21.

Still Time to Give To Easter Seals

"Although the Easter Seal campaign officially closed Easter Sunday, it is still not too late to give," Louis Colagiovanni, San Mateo County Easter Seal Chairman said today.

Colagiovanni thanked the residents of the county for their response to his call for contributions. The Easter week donations resulted in a jump from 50 per cent to 67 per cent of the 1966 goal of $60,000.

"On Good Friday, $40,500 had been received from 16,566 residents of San Mateo County," he said. What we need now is an over-the-top push to guarantee the continuance of the services our local Easter Seal Society, the Society for Crippled Children and Adults of San Mateo County, provides."

Direct services offered at the Rehabilitation and Research Center of the Society at 1784 Marco Polo Way in Burlingame include physical and occupational therapy, speech and hearing therapy, orthotics and the Rehabilitation Workshop. In addition, there are many indirect services, such as, counseling help to families, scholarships for students in rehabilitation, public programs of information for the care of the disabled and the summer and resident camps for crippled children.

"The Society for Crippled Children and Adults of San Mateo County is one of the finest rehabilitation centers in the country," Colagiovanni stated. "Its continued operation is essential to help meet the needs of the physically handicapped of the county. We have just reason to be proud of our Center and I am confident that the residents will continue to support this fine institution."

Visitors to the Rehabilitation and Research Center are always welcome between 8:30

Customers were directed out of the store while officers and market employees checked for a bomb, which was not found. The store was closed until 7:45 p.m.

a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, so that they can see the work that is being carried on and learn how their contributions make this possible.

Are you willing to go as low as $2353
for a new 9 passenger Station Wagon?
If you are, you'll have to be willing to settle for a Station Wagon that holds nearly twice as much as a regular wagon. Yet outside is only 9 inches longer than a Volkswagen Sedan.
And gives you 23 miles per gallon using regular. And 35,000 miles on tires.
And seldom needs oil between changes.
And when you do change oil it's 4 pints,
not 4 quarts.
And will look just as preposterous years from now as the day you took it for a test drive.
Speaking of test drives, come in for one.

April 23 also will be the only spring testing date for women intending to enroll in the fall in either the registered nursing or licensed vocational nursing programs at the college. They will meet at 2 p.m. in the student center.

At the same time, applicants who wish to take Math 30 (analytical geometry and differential calculus) in the fall will be given a qualifying test in building 18, room 192.

'JUNIOR CHAMP'

Coastside Jaycees Set Fitness Fete

According to a special report given at last week's Pacifica Chamber of Commerce luncheon the second annual Pacifica Junior Champ Olympics will be held at 9 a.m. on the Terra Nova High School track on Saturday, May 14.

The Pacifica Junior Chamber of Commerce, representatives of which spoke at last week's meeting and showed a film, will co-sponsor the event with the city's Park, Beach and Recreation Department.

The May program is in conjunction with a national Jaycee youth fitness program which is now in its fourth year.

Three age classifications will participate in the affair: nine to 10; 11 to 12; and 13 to 14.

Winners in the various events scheduled (there are seven in each age category) will go to the State Meet to be held in Stockton on June 18.

Winners from that meeting will then travel to Denver University for the national championships on August 25, 26 and 27.

National sponsors for the Jaycees' program include: Wheaties Sports Federation, the U.S. Track and Field Federation, and the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company.

Dennis King, who, along with Bud Gelow, showed the promotional film and represented the Jaycees, said that, "we could not have picked a more appropriate time to come to the meeting since today (last Thursday) is the kick-off day for the program."

Kick-off clinics began at Terra Nova and Ocean High Schools. They will continue to be held Tuesday through Friday at school playgrounds on May 13.

Recreation department leaders will assist the youngsters at these schools: Westview, Fairmont, Sanchez, Ortega, Linda Mar, Pacific Manor, Pedro Valley, Sharp Park and Valle-mar.

Boys and girls will both participate in the program.

King emphasized the value of the clinics by commenting that "with the clinics the boys and girls won't be left in the cold about the events."

He also stressed parental participation in the program: "One of the arms of the program is to get the parents involved in it."

"This is really a project for the city as a whole," he concluded.

In other action the chamber: Heard a report from Bernard Lake, chamber manager, on the chamber's role in mediating a financial difficulty between the city's Little Red Bus service and the city. Lake said that the Merchants' Association will aid the bus company financially next year.

Heard a progress report on the city's "Clean-Up Week," which will be held through April 23.

Pacifica's Eager Chamber

Members of Pacifica's Chamber of Commerce don't take chances when it comes to matters of feminine pulchritude.

At last week's chamber meeting President Stanley Vanderhulst lauded the chamber's 26-man Miss Pacifica Pageant Committee for its "hard work on the program so far."

He commented that "if we had 26-men committees for all our events there's no telling what this chamber might accomplish."

The chamber has 94 members.

20 Portable Rooms OK'd For Westmoor

Rental of 20 portable classrooms for $2,000 each to provide room for a higher enrollment at Westmoor High School was approved last week by trustees of the Jefferson Union High School District.

Trustees also authorized the expenditure of $4,650 to cover classroom installation costs. A total of $21,000 previously had been authorized to install and furnish the rooms.

Furniture and equipment for the classrooms will be used in Serramonte High School when that school is built.

The portable classrooms have been ordered for Westmoor to house an enrollment of 2,300 students in September. The school capacity is now 1,618 students.

Trustees last month rejected a citizens' committee report urging the transportation of some Westmoor students to Oceana High School to relieve the enrollment crush at Westmoor.

Contract Award By Colma Town

A contract for a set of traffic control signals to be erected on Hillside Boulevard was awarded to a San Francisco firm last week by the Colma City Council.

Steiny and Mitchell Inc. was the low bidder with a bid of $7,100.

The company will construct control signals opposite Olivet Memorial Park.

In other action the council decided to widen a portion of Hillside Boulevard opposite the Serbian Cemetery. The council said engineers will pave the shoulder of the heavily traveled road in that area.

FENDER DENTED

Maria Milero of 134 Santa Barbara Avenue, Daly City, reported to police last week that vandals had thrown a rock against her car, denting a fender.

Bayshore Will Open Bids May 17 for Construction

Bids for construction of new facilities and renovation of present buildings in the Bayshore School District will be opened at a special meeting of district trustees at 8 p.m. May 17.

Architects' plans for the construction were approved by state officials in "record time," according to Natalie Lipman, district superintendent.

She said that construction should begin "no later than June 10."

The district plans to build a multi-use room and four classrooms at Robertson School and to develop three acres on the school site for recreational use. Four old classrooms at Bayshore School will be replaced. A library and cafeteria facilities also will be added to Bayshore.

Coast Group Pushes Plans For Culture

A steering committee working in behalf of a community education program in Pacifica met in the Culture Room of the Sharp Park Library last week to formulate plans.

Committee chairman Enid Emde said the group will consider merging with the Advisory Committee for the Culture Room in order to establish a stronger organization to provide cultural and educational programs for Pacifica.

The new group, Mrs. Emde stated would attempt to have representation from as many organizations and individuals as possible in the community. The group would be sponsored by the Park, Beach and Recreation Department.

Among the programs planned is a pioneer adult education series that would be given by the College of San Mateo.

Dr. William Miller, co-ordinator of community education at the College, will meet with representatives from the new group if it is formed, to explain a pilot education program he has planned for Pacifica.

In addition, new window frames and doors will be constructed and general repairs made.

Funds for all construction will be provided by the proceeds of a $495,000 bond issue, approved by voters last September. The bond issue was the first in the district in 20 years.

Classified Aides Given Pay Boost

Clerical and maintenance personnel in the Bayshore School District have been granted an eight per cent salary increase by district trustees.

The new salary schedule, affects eight classified employees. The raise follows a 6.1 per cent pay boost given the district's 24 teachers earlier this year.

District Supt. Natalie Lipman said trustees wanted to raise classified employees' wages to a par with those in the Jefferson Union High School District.

The new pay schedule provides automatic increases every year for five years.

In other salary matters, trustees received a letter from the California Teachers' Association, noting that the district's new pay schedule for teachers was among the salary leaders in the Bay Area.

Trustees tabled action on a request by the Jefferson district for participation in a citizens' committee that will be appointed to study de facto segregation.

The committee was authorized by trustees of the high school district upon the recommendation of a district boundary study group.
